MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 28, 29, 31, November 1, 2, 3.

Record and Guide Quarterly

The annual number of the Record and Guide Quarterly contains all the legal records for the past year concerning real estate and projected buildings, arranged alphabetically and numerically, with invaluable annotations. These are supplemented by tables of important transactions, with typical prices, covering the past quarter of a century or more, accompanied by expert comments; also by a list of realty corporations created during the past two years, with officers and the enterprises in which they are engaged. The whole makes a volume of reference which no real estate man can afford to be without. It should be on every desk and in every library. Its cost is as nothing compared to its value as a time-saver. This important work can be obtained, with three quarterly numbers, for the comparatively small sum of $20. It is published by the Record and Guide, at Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey St., where interested parties may see it and have its uses explained to them. If you cannot call, drop a postal card to the Publisher, or call him up on telephone 3157 Cortlandt.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

DYCKERHOFF PORTLAND CEMENT

is made in Germany. When first introduced in the United States, some twenty-five years ago, its superior strength, correct chemical composition and absolute uniformity were quickly appreciated and placed it above all other Cements in the market. The Dyckerhoff brand maintains the original superiority;—its perfection has not been approached by any other Cement.

Bees have been putting up their honey in six-sided cells for six thousand years, because no better way has been found. Neither has the process of making "Taylor Old Style" roofing tin been improved by any modern invention.

N. & G. TAYLOR COMPANY
ESTABLISHED 1810
Philadelphia

"Rufus the Roofer" is a breezy booklet, in which the roof question is treated in a new vein. It will be sent to anyone on receipt of five cents in stamps, and is worth more than that simply as entertaining reading.

Vol. LXXIV. November 12, 1904. No. 1913.

APART from Monday and Wednesday, when some little excitement was natural, the stock market has been behaving in a wholesome manner during the past week. Heavy buying was succeeded by heavy selling, and prices did not recede as much under the selling as they advanced under the buying. The fact that the selling has taken place assures the market a stronger technical position; and, provided conditions do not change, there is no reason to believe that the general trend of prices will not continue to be bullish. The advance would not have contiuued during the past month had the imporvement in business kept pace with it; and that improvement is as conspicuous as ever. It is particularly conspicuous in those lines of heavy manufacturing which have been organized into large corporations; and it looks as if the preferred stocks of the best of the industrial companies might during the next year or two attain a sounder position than any which they achieved in the past. In 1902 these corporations were experiments, and an investor had no guarantee that they were not capitalized too high to maintain dividends through a period of very bad business. Well! the period of bad business has come and gone. The weaker of these corporations ceased to pay any dividends. The stronger omitted the dividends on their common stock, but were not obliged to diminish the dividends on the preferred. They will undoubtedly use another prosperous period to strengthen their cash surpluses, and so put themselves in even a stronger position to meet some years of relatively meagre and unprofitable business. Such is certainly the case with the biggest industrial company of all—the United States Steel Corporation. A year or two of really good times would enable it to add twenty-five or thirty million dollars to its resources, and so practically assure its rate of distribution on its preferred stock. The common stock will have to wait until the company has attained an impregnable financial position. Under such conditions there is no reason why these preferred stocks should not sell at least on a six per cent. basis.

IN spite of election day the budget of real estate sales consummated last week shows no diminution from the large totals of the last few weeks. The whole sum still runs well over 300, and of these more than one-half are sales of vacant lots. The greater part of the remainder consist of flats and tenements. In Manhattan the transactions in vacant lots and tenements constitute 150 out of about 180 transactions. It can be judged consequently how narrow the market is in other respects. It is more restricted even than it was during the corresponding week in 1903. A year ago some 30 private houses were sold, against less than 20 for the past week. We fully believe that the market will broaden considerably during the next few months. The public does not yet understand that the business reaction is over, and that business realities and prospects are excellent instead of doubtful. The people who own real estate hold on to it stubbornly enough. The level of prices established in 1902 has for the most part been maintained, while it has in some cases been advanced. But the firmness of prices partly explains the narrowness of the market and people are not purchasing either for use or investment as they were two years back, because prices still seem high. It is, however, to be expected that they will soon do so and that the good residence and business districts of the city will receive the benefit. For the present, however, there is nothing doing but lots and tenements. Every operator and speculator in the city is busy buying and selling lots in the Bronx and on Washington Heights. About 1,600 lots changed hands during the past week of which about 900 were situated in Manhattan. The volume of business is enormous, as is the volume of business on the Stock Exchange, but in real estate it is even more exclusively professional. Inasmuch as these operators are buying not merely to hold as the land speculators used to do, but to turn over to builders within the next year or two, it is entirely possible that an average of $20,000,000 or more will be spent on new buildings on the Heights for 1905 and 1906. There is every prospect, also, that this increase in house-room will be readily absorbed. The increase in population north of 125th st will, of course, effect important business changes along the line of upper Broadway and on 125th st. Stores, banks, and offices will have to be provided, as well as restaurants and churches; and all this will swell the volume of building operations.

THE agitation against the disfigurement of the Subway stations by cheap and ugly advertising signs continues to increase in volume, and to gain in confidence; but it has as yet succeeded in effecting nothing decisive. One gets the impression very strongly that some at least of the Rapid Transit Commissioners and their counsel regard the whole business as an unwarrantable interference with the Commission's business by a parcel of aesthetic busy-bodies. In the interviews with these gentlemen which appear in the daily papers, they not only stand resolutely on the contract with the Interborough Company but they go so far as to declare that they have no objection to the kind of signs which have been installed. It cannot be said that this attitude reflects very much credit upon the discernment of these gentlemen. We can understand that they should be loth openly to disparage the contract for which they are directly responsible. But inasmuch as they represent the city's interest in the rapid transit system, they should recognize that such signs are a genuine grievance, and they should be ready to use their influence towards the abatement of the nuisance. That the signs are aesthetic nuisances they must understand, because no advertising has been permitted in the stations of the Brooklyn Subway; and if they let it be known that they would do what they could to induce the Interborough Company to surrender the privilege, the public would have confidence that considering the dependence of that Company on the good will of New Yorkers and of the Commission, the pressure would ultimately be successful. It is certainly absurd to spend a great deal of the city's money in decorating the stations with tiles of delicate design and carefully selected colors, and then to have the whole scheme mutilated by display advertisements in any kind of color, and with the letters of any size. Although we have little faith that the contract is illegal, we hope that since in all probability the irremovable members of the Rapid Transit Commission will do little to help, the matter will be tested in the courts. If the Subway stations can be legally declared to be part of the street system of the city, it would be an excellent thing in more ways than one.

NOW that the election is over it is to be hoped that the city departments will show signs of increased activity. The Rapid Transit Commission in particular may very well show a little more energy. It is just three years ago this fall that the need for a lower West Side and an upper East Side Subway began to be discussed and the matter of selecting routes was taken up by the Commission; and in these three years but little has been done towards the settlement of new routes. The whole business has not advanced beyond the earliest stages, so that the city will have to wait for another five years or more before it can enjoy any improvement in its transit system—except such as can be made by enlarging the capacity of the existing elevated roads. Part of this delay was doubtless unavoidable, and part of it has been due probably to a natural desire on the part of the Commission to test the operation of the existing Subway before making detailed plans for extensions. But now there is no longer any reason for delay, and the people of the city will expect some display of energy on the part of the Commission—not only in laying out new longitudinal rapid transit routes, but in providing sufficient means of collecting and distributing the traffic which is crossing and will cross the East River. In this matter the plan of the Municipal Art Society for loop terminals connecting the bridge terminals with each other and with the most important points at which the traffic originates is undoubtedly the best that has been suggested and deserves more serious official consideration than it has yet received. The work which the Municipal Art Society is doing in the way of bringing to bear fresh and radical ideas upon the rapid transit problem of the Greater New York, is excellent and salutary. The ideas and plans it advocates may not always be acceptable, but they provide a needed corrective to the excessive conservatism of the Commission. Admirable as the personnel of the Rapid Transit Commission is, the ideas of its older members have not advanced beyond the standard of 1895. They do not fully realize how much more advantageous the city's position in respect the corporations is in 1905 than it was ten years ago.

President Roosevelt's Triumph.

THE overwhelming and almost unprecedented nature of Mr. Roosevelt's victory is due to a number of different causes, each of which has contributed substantially to the general result. Mr. Roosevelt might well have been elected even if one of the contributing causes had been absent; but the combination of all of them was necessary to differentiate Mr. Roosevelt's victory from that of Mr. McKinley in 1896, or from that of Mr. Cleveland in 1892.

The overshadowing cause of Mr. Roosevelt's election is undoubtedly the impression made by his own personality. He is the sort of man whom Americans thoroughly like. His good qualities are those which they are most apt to admire. His faults are those which they are most apt to condone. He is essentially a man of action, whose deeds follow quick upon his words, and whose brains have nothing to do but to serve his will. His methods of action are furthermore well adjusted to the conditions of American politics. He is as communicative as he is active. He believes absolutely in himself and in his ideas. He is eager to convince other men. He is honest, explosive, and at the same time shrewd. His errors of taste, his somewhat narrow sympathies, his inability to put himself in the place of other people, his lack of the magnanimity and intellectual patience of Lincoln—these things do not count against him with the American people. It is enough for them that he is honest, frank, loyal and consistent; and just because his disposition is ardent and communicative, his honesty and consistency draws a bigger following than did those of Grover Cleveland. The Democrats were perhaps bound to make an issue of Mr. Roosevelt's personality; but the effect of making such an issue was sure to be disastrous to them. His personality rings true just as did that of Lincoln and Jackson; and the people stand by him as they stood by his predecessors. Jackson, indeed, was much more of a man on horseback than Roosevelt ever has been. He was more dictatorial and more careless of legal forms. But his followers knew nevertheless that all the prating of the Whigs about a dictatorship and military rule was nonsense, just as the followers of Mr. Roosevelt know that the similar charges which have been made against President Roosevelt prove only the credulous bias of the opponents who make them. The American people know perfectly well the difference betwen a man who can and a man who cannot be trusted; and they have generally trusted the right man.

In this case, moreover, the right man had the advantage of standing for a distinctly national policy. Just what a national policy is cannot be easily explained in a few sentences; but it means certainly expansionism abroad and in domestic affairs the regulation and subordination of the interests of special classes to those of the whole people. Except in certain instances Mr. Roosevelt has stood for such a policy. His general point of view and purpose is, perhaps, more national than that of any other prominent American politician. His attitude toward expansion is national. He was the historian of American continental expansion before he entered national politics, and he has always believed in the value for civilization of the extension of the American influence. His attitude toward domestic affairs is national. He has always been a strong unionist, and has believed in the slow but progressive extension of the influence of the national government. His attitude toward corrupt practices in American politics has always been national. He has opposed the selfish and mercenary tactics of the politicians, and has helped to popularize civil service reform. His attitude toward the trusts has been thoroughly national, because he has stood for conservative regulation of large corporations in the interest of the whole people, and has prepared the way for the national corporation law, which must eventually come. His attitude towards the labor unions has been national. He expressed his sympathy with the labor union as the most promising contemporary movement looking toward the improvement of the lot of the laboring man, while at the same time he refused to erect the unions into a class especially favored by the general government. In only one instance has his attitude been less than national, and that is in his submission to the special interests which dominate the protectionist policy of the Republican party. Doubtless he believes that protectionism is the national position; and so it would be provided the protection afforded was not excessive. As it is the tariff works in favor of special interests and against the interests of the whole people. But in all these respects, the tariff excepted, he is thoroughly national—more so than his party, and it is this combination of a compelling and forcible personality with ideas and a policy that have the momentum and the integrity of American national life behind them, which has proved to be so irresistible.

Then he had the additional advantage of a disorganized opposition. In the time of Jackson the Democracy represented undoubtedly the most vital forces in American life. But such has long ceased to be the case. The party got on the wrong side during the Civil War, and it has never recovered its consistency and balance. Its one chance was to stand loyally for the national interest against the selfish special interests, which are so powerful in the Republican party; but it seems to be incapable of putting that opportunity to effective use. The wing of the party represented by Parker is incapable of taking anything but a negative legal view of the trust question. It is moderate, but it is afraid of constructive national legislation. On the other hand the radical wing of the party under the leadership of Mr. Bryan goes to another extreme. Its purposes are too radical. It would erect the poor man into a favored class, and milk the rick man for his benefit. At the same time Mr. Bryan's tenacious loyalty to the catchwords of the Jeffersonian democracy deprive him of the only means with which his radical policy could be carried out. He seeks a national redistribution of wealth, but has scruples about using the national government for the purpose. The same blind faith in Jeffersonian phrases has kept the party hopelessly wrong on the question of expansion, and has alienated from it the people who believe that the United States should take its proper place in the world. Thus the party is divided against itself both in its aims and in its membership, and it is at the same time divided from the progressive forces in American national life. The one national movement which it has made its own—that of tariff reform—has been given an anti-national twist by allowing it to be confused with free trade, and by its absurd assertion that protection is robbery. Protection is right; but it should be protection regulated in the national interest. In short Mr. Roosevelt's opponents had no consistent and momentous policy with which to arouse popular interest and approval; and it is no wonder that their stale shibboleths fell upon deaf ears. President Roosevelt has under prevailing conditions more to fear from his party friends than from his party foes.

Washington Heights Taxpayers.

NEW ERA FOR THE CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION—PRESENT NECESSITIES OF THE DISTRICT.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, held on Nov. 9, there was a large attendance of members to discuss a number of matters of public importance.

The need for relief of the surface railroad system on Amsterdam avenue is very pressing. The association's committee will take up again the question of the existing franchise for a railroad on Broadway from Manhattan street north. The opinion was expressed by the secretary that this line should be extended to Ft. George and looped around to meet the Amsterdam avenue line. The inadequacy of the means of access to the Subway station at 168th street, in view of the crowds attending the ball grounds, was discussed and the attention of the Rapid Transit Commission is to be drawn to the matter.

The delay in the opening of 157th street station in the Subway was reported to be due only to the painting and plastering work now going on, and the committee had received assurance from the Interborough officials that the station would be opened to general traffic within fourteen days.

The Committee on Public Improvements, of which Mr. Geo. C. Wheeler was recently appointed chairman, has rendered active service in pressing for the establishment of parkway lots on upper Broadway to 169th street, and in a movement for permanently paving that fine thoroughfare, now that the excavation work is completed.

The committee dealing with the excessive speed of automobiles is in touch with the West End Association on this important subject and the two are also interested in the matter of street signs, many of which have recently been removed with the old gas lamps.

The Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association is actively at work enlarging its membership among residents up on the Heights. A temporary office has been established on Amsterdam avenue on the northwest corner of 157th street. The organization was founded in the year 1889 and has a record of public benefits secured through its agency. It has recently commenced an active and more extended work, in view of the now rapid development of traffic into the district, and it already includes among its members many of the most prominent citizens having interests in or being residents upon the Heights. It is now desired to extend its membership so as to include a larger representation of the residents of all classes, by which access of members the association will gain in influence, and at the same time every addition to its roll will infuse new ideas and energies into its operations. The Executive Committee has therefore decided to abandon the requirement of an entrance fee on union with the association, and has reduced the annual subscription to the very modest sum of two dollars.

The association can point not only to the accomplishment of important public improvements attained in the past by its initiative, such as its pioneer work in the demand for rapid transit, now so recently realized, as well as its work in securing the handsome viaduct at 155th street, which has so greatly contributed to the development of the Heights, but also to its more recent if more modest accomplishment in securing due official attention to paving the main thoroughfares, to the relief from crowding on the car service on Eighth avenue and to the recent decision to lay out upper Broadway with Central Park plots. Standing committees are organized which are prepared to deal with matters of transit, health, drainage, education and other kindred subjects, while special committees are appointed to deal with other questions as they arise.

Twenty-Eight Story Building.

THE FIRST SKYSCRAPER EVER DESIGNED—A PROPHECY THAT MAY COME TRUE NEXT YEAR.

In view of the suit brought by Architect L. S. Buffington, of Minneapolis, against the Sixty Wall Street Corporation to recover damages for an alleged infringement of his patent for steel skeleton construction, to which reference was made in the Record and Guide of Oct. 29, the accompanying illustrations will be inspected with interest in building and real estate circles. This design for a 28-sty building was made by Mr. Buffington in the year 1886; the original studies dated back some years farther and constituted the beginning of the style of skeleton metal construction for buildings as patented by him. When the perspective was first published, in 1888, it was commented on all over the world, as press clippings preserved by the inventor will show, and it is amusing to note at this era that it was called a dream and excited much merriment among unprofessional people. But the New York Sun, with an eye piercing the future, remarked: "To be sure this is probably the production of a crank, but the cranks of one generation are sometimes the prophets of the next."

To-day, after sixteen years, 60 Wall st, the highest building in the world, is built on this principle, if Mr. Buffington's claims are correct, but only twenty-six stories high. Next year, however, we may see this prophecy fulfilled. In the light of the accomplished facts, as represented by the "skyscraper" buildings all about us, the contents of a pamphlet that was issued in 1888 is pertinent, at least to those who have a broad make-up and are willing to learn what Mr. Buffington had to do with the evolution of the skyscraper. Writing, then, in 1888, of his system of construction, he said:

"True, iron has been used to a certain extent in building processes, but only in a perfunctory and unintelligent way. Heretofore neither the architect nor engineer has succeeded in combining masonry and iron successfully. This, however, is not difficult of explanation when we consider the peculiar qualities of the material. Substituting a shaft of iron for a column of granite or marble is all very well, but it is not an innovation or the adoption of a new principle; also no great intellect is necessary to replace a lintel of stone or wood by an iron joist. But substituting iron for the very essence of the building, the frame itself, may assume a very high degree of importance and lead to novel contrivances and enable us to attempt undertakings of which the former ages had only a vague presentment.

"But how is this fact to be accomplished? If the architect would approach the problem with frankness, and without fear of precedent, approach it as Stephenson did the problem of the locomotive, Whitney the cotton gin or Morse the electric telegraph, most of the difficulties would be found to exist in name only. It is obvious to the most unscientific that a building of iron may possess strength, lightness, economy of construction, not approached by one of any of the other materials; and would be equally or more permanent were the racking effects of expansion and contraction eliminated.

"It is also understood that the lattice form of riveted girder is the most economical and strongest form of construction known. Imagine, then, if you please, a building frame complete, of latticed riveted girders of iron and covered with an envelope of light, cheap and absolutely non-conducting substance, which admits of forms of great beauty and corrects entirely the only trouble that might arise in a structure of this nature. To speak more particularly, the system of building which is recommended herein may be described as a series of laminated riveted iron posts diminishing in size as they ascend from the foundation and braced diagonally after the manner of lattice girders, as well as by the horizontal bracing of the iron beams of each floor, which form an integral portion of the main structure and are no small factor in its stability; and the frame covered with a thick coating of a non-conducting substance of absolute reliability.

"The exterior is formed of stone, brick or terra-cotta supported on shelves secured at each story to the framing, which further precludes any expansion or contraction of the iron and which gives to us a building which is free from any degree of settlement and the resultant dilapidations which in the average building are so important an element. In addition to the scientific principles which are embodied in this form of construction, it has advantages, the recapitulation of which may, upon the first hearing, seem extravagant, but which are susceptible of easy demonstration." * * *

The concluding paragraph of the pamphlet says:

"From the foregoing it will be seen that this system of construction has the merit of being 15 per cent. cheaper than any other. More quickly built than any other. Has thinner walls and consequently greater floor space than any other. Owing to the thinness of the walls the slightness of the framing, more light, if desired, than any other. As shown, better ventilation than any other, as well as more cheaply heated than any other. A lack of settlement not found in any other. No waiting for the walls to dry, which is not found in any other. Only one material to handle, not found in any other. Ability to build in winter as well as in summer, a quality not found in any other. An absolute reliance on the strength of the structure, rarely found in any other. A facility for alteration not found in any other. An array of advantages which must seriously commend themselves to men who think practically and scientifically upon matters of this nature."

The claim of the Minneapolis architect is not on the old form of iron construction, it should be explained, but on the continuous braced skeleton of metal, the tapering post, the laminated column, the shelves secured to the framing at each story, the veneer supported by the shelves, the girts, beams and the angle plate. It has occasioned not a little surprise in the trade to hear of the modern steel skeleton construction claimed as a distinct invention, as opposed to a mere evolution of methods, but no one has yet produced evidence to the contrary. The Sixty Wall Street Corporation thus far has made no answer to Mr. Buffington's complaint.

Te'ephone Logic.

The prospect seems bright for an era of commercial expansion and prosperity. For several years back the crops have been good and the farmers prosperous. Manufacturing industries are only waiting to learn that our protective policy is to remain the same for the next four years to increase their output, and general trade conditions are less disturbed than is the usual custom in a Presidential election year.

The current boom in vacant land on Washington Heights and in the Bronx and the general activity of suburban real estate seems to bear evidence to this belief. Moreover, this activity is so closely associated with building operations that still more weight is added to the truth of this prediction, for only in the anticipation of such prosperity would the home builders be in active preparation for expansion.

It is axiomatic in the development of large cities that their limits depend on the accessibility of the outlying regions to the business centre.

When the New York Central, the Pennsylvania and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroads have completed the improvements and extensions, which are already outlined, the residential limits of the city, as we may call them, will be extended in all directions.

Credit for suburban development of this nature is always given to the transportation company which opens up a locality and connects it with the heart of the city. There is another public service, however, which, in a quiet way, has accomplished wonders in linking together the various parts of the city and in unifying the territory within a radius of 40 miles of the City Hall.

This service makes it possible for an individual, no matter where he is located, to get in immediate communication with any other individual in this broad territory. Telephone service, highly developed and thoroughly efficient, makes this communication possible, but our familiarity with the telephone and the ease and simplicity of its operation make us forget or fail to realize its marvelous utility.

It seems reasonably sure that the suburbs around New York are bound to be wonderfully developed within the next few years. Since time and distance have been almost annihilated by our rapid transportation facilities and our instantaneous telephone, it would seem that the principal reasons for living in the city have lost their logic, and the future tendency will be for the great majority of our rich and middle classes to seek the suburbs, giving Manhattan Island over to its constantly increasing business.

Small Parks.

The total number of parks at present laid out in the entire city is 164. This number includes seventy-four small areas, each having less than one acre. Of these small areas Manhattan has 27 with a total area of six acres and the Bronx 31 with a total acreage of 9.23. It is evident that many of these are not worthy of the name of parks, but are public places at important street intersections, some of them doubtless being paved and not being treated as parks. At present there are two parks projected in Manhattan, the Hudson Memorial and Chelsea Parks. In Brooklyn there are thirteen projected parks, in Bronx seven, and in Queens, three. As yet, Queens and Richmond are in an unmapped condition, and Chief Engineer Lewis believes that the laying out of a system of parks is properly a part of the mapping of these boroughs, and that, instead of covering the entire area with a system of streets and subsequently determining which of these streets should be wiped out to permit of the laying out of parks as the necessity for them develops, the reverse of this policy should be followed, the park areas being in many instances first located and the street system made to conform therewith. The advantage of such a policy is being continually demonstrated, he says, by the demands which are made for the connection of parks laid out since the street system was adopted, by a series of adequate parkways or boulevards, which will weld the different park areas into a unit. This was done in the case of the Mcsholu parkway and the Bronx and Pelham parkway, connecting Van Cortlandt Park, Bronx Park and Pelham Bay Park, and was of inestimable advantage.

Few Skyscrapers in Baltimore.

After the destruction of a greater portion of the business district of Baltimore, it was generally predicted that from the ashes which marked what was left of several thousand buildings of all classes, a city of skyscrapers would result. These predictions, however, have been refuted by the new building laws and an apparent lack of capital. Although hundreds of thousands of dollars are pouring in to be invested in new structures, it develops that the stringent building laws call for the investment of too much capital to construct skyscrapers of sufficient stability to come within the new regulations.

The new law will not permit the erection of buildings higher than thirteen stories, and even these must be so absolutely fireproof that the cost of erection is immense. The extreme height is limited to one hundred and seventy-five feet, and those over eighty-five feet must be fireproof throughout.

Many which had been planned originally to be of from ten to twelve stories have been cut to six and even as low as two stories. Much care is being exercised in providing against fire, and the old style of wooden door and window frames are being replaced by metal work.

A number of the buildings which held out best against the flames were built of concrete, and this material is finding much favor with those who are rebuilding. Instead of rising to a great height the bank buildings of Baltimore will be from one to two stories.

Building Boom on the Heights in the Spring.

Speaking of the suddenness of the real estate boom in the northern part of the city, Charles T. Barney remarked this week that it seemed as though the opening of the Subway was one of the very few things that our quick American people did not discount, but actually waited until the road was in operation before they commenced to take advantage of its possibilities. Mr. Barney thinks that a building movement will commence in the spring and continue without interruption, making due allowance, of course, for the possibility of labor troubles.

Mr. Barney has about concluded with signal success a series of extensive operations in lots on the Heights, the sales aggregating several millions of dollars. Not having time for any building and loan operations himself, he has preferred to sell to practical real estate operators and building and loan corporations, reserving, however, his fronts for the most part and a reasonable share of the whole. Already in many cases sites have come into the hands of actual builders.

A Petition from Cement Manufacturers.

A number of New York State cement manufacturing companies have petitioned the State Canal Board to provide that, in the construction of the new barge canal to run across the State, the cement manufactured in New York shall be given preference over that manufactured in other States. Charles H. Ramsey, of the Helderberg Cement Co., of Albany, recently appeared before the board and said that $15,000,000 was invested in cement works in New York State, and only six per cent. of the total output of the United States is produced here. There is plenty of raw material, he said, and the industries of this State should be fostered. The petition presented by the cement companies is as follows:

"There are several millions of capital invested in the manufacture of Portland cement in this State. This investment yields to the State directly by taxation a large revenue, while the employment by the various cement companies of thousands of workmen, affords a home market for the farmers and manufacturers within the borders of the State, thus yielding to it a large indirect revenue. In view of these facts we, the undersigned cement companies respectfully request that your board take such steps as may be within its power to provide that in the construction of the new barge canal the cement made within the State's boundaries shall be given preference over other cements, conditioned only that the quality and price shall be equal to these cements made without the State. [Signed]: The Helderberg Cement Co., T. Henry Dumary, president; Alsen's Portland Cement Co., T. Henry Baasch, treasurer; Glens Falls Portland Cement Co., W. W. McClay, president;; Empire Portland Cement Co., Charles A. Lockard, manager; Wayland Portland Cement Co., V. F. Whitmore, president; Cayuga Lake Cement Co., M. E. Calkins, president; Thomas Millen Co., F. W. Millington, secretary."

Flats and tenements accounted for only sixty-seven of the Manhattan deals. The totals for the week were three hundred and twenty-nine, and of these one hundred and eighty-five were in Manhattan.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

November 4, 5, 7, 9 and 10.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The Real Evil.

WHY LABOR TROUBLES CONTINUE IN THE BUILDING TRADES IN NEW YORK CITY.

By Theodore Starrett.

THE labor problem is without doubt the most important problem that the American nation has to solve. It will only be solved through the growth of an enlightened public opinion, and as a precedent to this the public must be fully informed. We hear of strikes like those of the mine workers in Pennsylvania or the beef packers in Chicago, where wages are low and conditions hard, and our sympathies go out, almost without exception, to the "down-trodden working man," but when we come to the building trades, where the trouble seems to be just as great and indeed almost absolutely irreconcilable, we learn that wages are high—the highest that ever were known in the history of the civilized world, and nobody is trying to cut them down; that work is plentiful—there are not enough men to do it all—and yet the turmoil of sympathetic strikes and lockouts grows in violence, and the confusion becomes greater and greater. People wonder what it can all be about, for it certainly is on the surface the most bewildering muss that ever was heard of.

A great many people think the unions are to blame for this muss, and that they will have to be done away with before industrial peace can come to pass. I say that the unions are not to blame. They are a necessity to protect the weak against the rapacity and greed of unscrupulous employers. A well ordered union like the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for instance, is one of the greatest things in the world. It is the union which is unrestrained by any sense of responsibility to the other members of society that is making the trouble, and the cure will be made by getting a good form of government for the union and not by attempting to suppress it. Legitimate unionism has a great work to perform in this country and the reforms must be brought about by casting out the corrupt and perverted element which dominates the unions, just as in matters of general government the pothouse politician has to be suppressed before reforms can be accomplished.

To understand the whole question better a few facts should be stated. The trade union is an ancient institution. It is descended from the guild of the Middle Ages. The old trades are the carpenters, the masons—embracing now bricklayers, plasterers, stone setters, etc., and the smiths—blacksmiths, whitesmiths (tinsmiths), goldsmiths, silversmiths and the like.

Modern life has produced new trades which have formed unions on the lines of the old trades, and of late the labor union, in emulation of the trade union, has been organized, and gradually all those who work for wages are being brought into the fold of organized labor. The old trades, however, are the building trades and traditionally their work is supposed to be more or less precarious and their wages are correspondingly higher than those of their fellow workers. As a matter of fact, however, some trades have so few members that their work is as steady as that of a clerk in a bank.

Out of the 30,000,000 people engaged in gainful occupations in the United States, 3,000,000 are organized, and of these about 600,000 belong to the building trades in the larger cities. In the matter of wages 2,400,000 of the organized workers have been able to exact only slight advances in wages, as far as the general standard is concerned, although great things have been accomplished in bringing about stability and preventing the abuse of the weak. The other 600,000 have been able to do more or less as they please, and the result, as has been stated before, is the highest scale of wages to be found anywhere in the world.

But it is not high wages that cause the trouble that we hear about and wonder at. It is something infinitely worse. The abuses that have been perpetrated as a result of certain practices on the part of employers in the building trades are the true cause of the whole trouble.

Trade unionism is indigenous to the large city. The smaller the city the less there is of it, and when we come to the rural districts the blight of indifference prevents its growth altogether.

Three great cities of this country are typical of different phases of trade unionism. San Francisco is the head center of labor troubles on the Pacific coast; Chicago is the center for the Middle States and New York is the Eastern center. In San Francisco the labor element has, until recent days, had everything its own way, through the fact that there was no organized opposition. Its isolation is what made possible the success of the laborites who, until very recently, had the town absolutely at their mercy. Chicago, with the help of a demagogical mayor, was the center for a period of some two years of virtual anarchy, which spread from the comparatively small body of building mechanics to such an extent that almost every class of working man was compelled—and is now for that matter—to wear a badge which he gets renewed every month showing that he belongs to a union and has paid his dues. The tide has started to recede in that town, as is shown by the fact that whereas three years ago there were 250,000 people in the city who were members of unions, last year the number had shrunk by 100,000. But in Chicago, great as was the abuse, it was still a one-sided affair, as the employers joined with the public in resisting the excesses of unionism.

In New York unionism has not made nearly the progress that it has in other cities, as is evidenced by the fact that it is still confined, at least as far as its power to demoralize is concerned, to the building trades. But in the building trades of New York City there is a different factor which has carried the building industry to a state of confusion and disorganization that is far worse and infinitely more deplorable than the anarchy of Chicago or the socialism of San Francisco, and the reason has been that here the employers and the employees are arrayed in groups for mutual protection and aggression.

In what has been called the golden age of the building business in New York City, not so very long ago, there were understandings in connection with almost every building of importance, especially the buildings for rich owners, whereby the leading employers in each line would divide up the work. These leading employers were generally a small coterie in each trade and there was plenty to go around. There were no cut prices, everything was easy and the architects through whom the work had to be secured were made to believe that the only way to get their work done properly was to let it to some one of the "big four" or the "big five" or the "big six" as the case might be. Then came outside competition, when strange employers and strange men started to knock at the door of this Eden, and it became necessary to squelch them. Treaties were made with the different trades, and strange to say the employers had to arrange to "take care of" their fellow-employers, the matter of wages or discipline as between master and man being an indifferent one, and by means of these treaties any employer who "misbehaved" was disciplined. Strikes were declared against the recalcitrant one for no apparent reason at all, or, if the walking delegate who was the instrument through whom these things were done condescended to give his reason, it was very much like the answer the wolf gave to the lamb when he said that if the lamb didn't foul his water his grandfather had done so and he would eat him anyhow.

Under such a system, perforce, the mechanics discovered what a bonanza their employers had and they were not slow to take advantage of it. They were no longer under control. They were practically in a position to blackmail the employer who had asked of them an improper service. They speedily proceeded to run things as they pleased. The "go-easy" system which is said to be the cause of the industrial paralysis of England was not a marker to what they promulgated right here in the greatest city of America, and the second greatest city in the world. The books of some of the unions were "closed," and have been kept so for years, and the result was that in some trades the different employers had virtually to put their jobs on a waiting list at the union headquarters, and when the men got through with one job they always knew of three or four others that they could go to without loss of any time.

The restrictions that have been placed on a man's work are such that the output has been reduced to one-half of what fair competition would have produced. Wages, of course, have been advanced to whatever point the sweet will of the union demanded.

It will be understood that these combinations have not been so successful in some trades as in others, but the principle has been carried as far as it would go in all of them, and rates of wages have been established by the trades which had the best monopolies, and the other trades climbed right up along side. Many trades, however, cannot be protected so perfectly, and in some of them the lot of the high-priced mechanic is one that would not be envied by the ticket chopper in the subway, who, for $1.40, works 12 hours a day without being allowed to leave his station to get his luncheon. But that is another story.

But the employers grew tired of a state of affairs where the employees ruled the roost. As long as they could make the owners pay for it all it was a case of "the more the merrier." Times changed, but the men wouldn't change with them, and it has finally culminated in a war in which the New York employers want to win and don't want to win. They want to whip the unions, but they want them to stay friendly, as they want them to help repel the invader.

The public thinks the "Open-Shop" is a non-union shop, but that is where they are deceived. I venture the opinion that there can be permanently no non-union shop in the building business in any great city in this country. The union is an old institution that is here to stay, and no sensible man would try to stop it. There is no "Open-Shop" question before the people of New York City. It is really a question of allowing union men from other cities—just as good union men as ever lived—to work in New York, and it is also a question of allowing employers from other cities to do business here.

The Employers' Association, as a whole, does not undertake to keep out new employers, but some of the subordinate employers' associations are just as determined as ever they were to keep out new competitors, and the plan of continuing "the conspiracy" is the only one that they know of.

When employers realize, as they must, the trouble that has been made, and when it has been demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of everybody who has tried it that the mechanics get all the benefit of these conspiracies and the employers none, it seems strange that they still cling to this fatuous idea. I suppose they would rather bear the ills they have than fly to others that they know not of; but they will have to fly to some new ones just the same. The Kilkenny cat fight has got to be stopped, though I think it will be necessary for outsiders to do it, and the outsiders in this case are the public.

An agreement as to wages between an Employers' League in any particular trade and its corresponding trade can be a cloak under which the old conspiracy is to be preserved, and a great many people will suspect that it is. It is really to the credit of the mechanics that they refuse to sign an agreement that interferes with their individual liberties. The trouble is now beyond the delegates with whom the employers always got along nicely, and it is up to the individual men. They are free men and the principle involved is such that they cannot with self-respect give in. "You may lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink," and it stands to reason, with mechanics getting a dollar a day more than the union rate out in the Bronx and with more work than there are men to do it, that very little progress can be made. But when the trouble is patched up and the mechanics sign a humiliating arbitration agreement individually, once the trial comes it will be found a hollow mockery, as indeed it has been proved every time it has been put to the test during the past summer.

The only way that peace can be brought about in the building industry is by putting conspiracies away forever. Let the men have their unions and let the employers have their associations, but let them conduct their affairs in accordance with the constitution of the United States, on the basis of the greatest good to the greatest number. Then industry will begin to right itself; the working man will work under normal and natural conditions; his wages need not be reduced, but the mechanic will do a fair day's work and no one will begrudge him his pay.

Comparisons are odious, but I venture to state my belief, without prejudice to other classes of mankind, that there are more true hearts among the working mechanics of the United States than can be found in any other class of people. There is more real sympathy for the boss who is "in a hole" and more willingness to help him out than is to be found anywhere else in the world.

Is it right to try to prevent men from giving any play at all to a humane instinct?

Residences on Washington Heights.

THE announcement during the week on the part of the syndicate which has been making such heavy purchases on the summit of Washington Heights that a large part of the property recently acquired would be restricted to a good class of private residences gives new life to the most interesting and doubtful question in relation to the future of real estate in Manhattan and the Bronx. This question concerns the comparative popularity in the future of private residences and apartment houses. For more than twenty years New Yorkers, who had enough money to make the choice, have gradually been deserting private houses and moving into flats, until at the present time the number of new dwellings built on Manhattan Island every year varies between 50 and 100. Twenty years ago the number varied between 1,000 and 1,300. The reason for this change has, of course, been primarily the gradually but steadily increasing cost of available sites. Early in the West Side movement small houses were built and sold for less than $15,000. Now no houses are built in the same part of the city which can be purchased for thrice that sum, while the average cost of house and land of the new dwellings now being built on Manhattan Island is nearer $150,000 than $15,000. It is no wonder, consequently, that in the competition between the two types of habitation the apartment house has largely supplanted the private dwelling, and the still more economical residence-hotel, the apartment-house. The question is, however, whether under the new conditions this tendency will be checked or will be reinforced. An area as large as the West Side has been opened up on the Washington Heights, and another area vastly large is being opened up in the Bronx; and with cheap land again restored to the New Yorker in comfortable circumstances, will the private dwelling regain some of its former popularity?

Up to the present time there has been no sign that such would be the case. On Washington Heights it is apartment and tenement house builders, who have been active rather than the builders of residences. So far during the current year plans have been filed for forty-two tenements and flats, to be erected on the Heights, against twenty-two private dwellings. Mr. Chas. T. Barney proposed to restrict the street lots in the vicinity of 140th st, recently sold by him, to private dwellings, but was apparently unable to do so. In the Bronx, also, the tide is setting strongly in the direction of multiple dwellings. Of course, many frame suburban houses are still built in that borough; but in those parts of the Bronx in which one and two family brick houses compete with flats, the flats are proving to be more popular. The one and two family houses sell well enough, but they are built only in comparatively small numbers. Plans have been filed for 150 so far during 1904, while the number of tenements which have been projected during the same period is 394.

It by no means follows, however, that as soon as the situation clears up there will not be room for the erection every year in Manhattan and the Bronx of possibly 500 brick or stone private residences. The majority of real estate brokers and operators, who know the conditions on Washington Heights most thoroughly, believe that eventually a good many individual dwellings will be constructed in that part of the city; and a number of these gentlemen state their views in another part of this issue. In brief these opinions are that Washington Heights to the east of Broadway will be built over with flats and tenements, but that the higher land nearer the river will be improved chiefly with residences. In case apartment houses are erected in the western part of the tract, they will be apartment houses of an unusual type, such as are more familiar in the larger western cities than in New York. That is, they will be detached with plenty of space around them, and with grass plots, flower beds and vines to make them pleasant and habitable. It is also surmised that in Boulevard Lafayette that handsome detached houses situated on comparatively large lots will be built, and will prove to be popular. These surmises are, of course, made with a good deal of hesitation; and it appears that even the syndicate, which proposes to restrict lots on the top of the Heights, is by no means sure of its ground. Still they represent a body of extremely well-informed and intelligent opinion; and it will add much to the interest of New York City in case the superb sites for residences, which Washington Heights offers, are used in this way.

For our own part, while the Record and Guide fully believes that beginning in 1905 there will be several hundred dwellings erected each year on Washington Heights, we doubt whether the renewed building of such dwellings will ever obtain much volume south of the Harlem. It seems probable that wherever private dwellings compete with apartment houses, the apartment house will win. In the case of suburban houses, such competition exists only to a small extent, because the inhabitants of a suburban house possess wants, which cannot be supplied by apartment houses. In the same way the majority of people who can afford to pay over $3,000 a year in rent will in any event prefer a private house. But so far as concerns the many thousand people, who want to live in the city and who pay from $800 to $2,500 a year in rent—this class of people who formerly occupied private houses will we believe in the future come to live more, rather than less, in apartments. It is after all largely a matter of social habit, and New Yorkers have got the habit. Life in an apartment house may not be pleasant in some respects; but it is convenient, and it is economical. With the wages of domestic labor increasing every year and the difficulty and expense of managing the larger establishment necessitated by a private house growing, it is no wonder that people are coming to prefer apartments. In foreign cities, such as Paris and Vienna, most people have become so accustomed to apartment houses that they never think of living in any other way; and it would be a matter of surprise to find New Yorkers finally committed to the same habit. It is plain at all events that since 1899 there has been no unsatisfied demand for private houses. For five years the stock of moderate-priced private houses in Manhattan has diminished; and if the demand for them had been as insistent as it was formerly, moderate-priced houses would have increased considerably in value all over the city. The fact that such has not been the case indicates that New Yorkers are reconciled to the change. At the present time the demand for dwellings is noticeably small.

The one part of the city in which the demand for residences has been and continues to be excellent is the section east of Central Park and south of 80th st. Even during the last year, when the very expensive dwellings have been comparatively neglected, the streets between Park and Lexington aves. have remained active and prices have been advancing. This district, however, is peculiar. Prices have become so high that it is no longer a section of moderate-priced dwellings in any part; and it has been picked for its present high uses, because of its accessibility. People who live in expensive houses must be within easy reach by carriage of the shops and theatres. Such is the case pre-eminently with the East Side, and such is not the case with the West Side or with Washington Heights. That is one reason why the West Side disappointed the expectations of the people who expected it to supersede the East Side as the best residential district. As for Washington Heights it is useless to expect anybody to live there who depends to any extent upon carriage transit. The East Side will remain for many years the one district in which private residences will hold their own.

THE stock market has not behaved as well during the past week as the people who believe in higher prices would like. "New high records" have, indeed, been established; but they are the result of flagrant manipulation. There seems to be some diminution of confidence on the part of the market leaders, and a good deal of liquidation. If, however, some recession in prices takes place it will be for technical rather than general reasons. It will be because of the operators whose purchases effected the rise are unable to realize their profits without undoing a good deal of their work. Hitherto the market has stood profit-taking with great steadiness; but it probably cannot continue to do so unless a more general popular interest has been aroused that has yet been evident. The underlying business conditions, however, continue to improve. Easy money is assured for months to come; railroad earnings continue to increase; the steel manufacturers are raising prices, and so it goes. It is the constant improvement in business conditions which have enabled the bull speculation to be maintained, and as long as the improvement continues no great recession can occur. A set-back of some weeks might, however, do more good than harm.

ANY fair-minded person on his way to the Subway station in City Hall Park who stops to notice the present appearance of the City Hall, must admit that the looks of that building has been improved by the cleaning to which it is now being subjected. Borough President Ahearn's critics called its former appearance mellow, whereas as a matter of fact it was as M. Ahearn said, merely dirty. The result of the coating of dirt was not at all that of giving the building a time-honored and respectable effect. On the contrary the way in which the discoloration had been washed in some places, while in others it had assumed a deeper hue made the whole look of the building slovenly and disreputable, and if at the present time it is beginning to look rather too stiff and smart, the garish white of the marble will be sufficiently tempered in a year or two to remove this objection. It is extraordinary to what lengths the conservatism of people will go. From the hue and cry that has been raised one would think that the sanctity of our metropolitan life had been violated by this very ordinary and desirable piece of house-cleaning.

IT is encouraging to note that the great work of improving the equipment of the New York streets, which was begun under the last administration, is not to be entirely dropped. An organization, to be known as the Street Sign Conference of Municipal Organizations, with Mr. J. L. Brower as its President, has been formed; and it will be the object of this organization to bring the importance of this matter to the attention of the borough officials and to assist them with suggestions. Every consideration, both of convenience and good looks, demands that the city of New York should be adequately furnished with legible street signs and house numbers, and no doubt the idea of providing additional equipment will appeal to the officials of the present administration. It is small improvements of this kind affecting the convenience of hundreds of thousands of people, which help to make an administration popular, and since the benefits to be derived from a better street equipment are out of all proportion to its cost, there can be no objection on the score of economy. The sooner work is begun the better.

THE plea of the Retail Dry Goods Association to be heard in the matter of the proposed Sixth Ave. Subway connecting with the Morton St. street trolley tunnel deserves every consideration. The petition of the Association might have stated its claims in very much stronger terms than it did. Indeed, we believe that it would be difficult to over-estimate the importance of giving the New Jersey trolley tunnel a direct connection with Greeley Square; and by means of the Sixth Ave. Subway, situated twenty feet below the surface, this connection can be obtained without prejudice to the use of that avenue, if desired, as a part of the municipal transit system. Not merely the Retail Dry Goods Association but every owner of real estate along the line of middle Broadway, 5th Ave., 6th and 7th Aves. has a personal interest in insisting that this connection shall be made. There are certain tunnel and bridge connections with the suburbs which tend to draw population from New York, and distribute it over the outlying districts; and of these any of the tunnels or bridges with a terminus down town will constitute a good illustration. They carry business men from their offices to their homes. On the other hand there are other tunnels whose chief function it will be to restore to Manhattan the sources of value which have been taken away from it. Means of transit of this class enable the suburban resident and his family to spend their money in Manhattan—to patronize more liberally than they otherwise would its shops, restaurants and theatres. A Sixth Ave. connection with the Morton St. tunnel would largely increase the amount of money which the residents of Hudson and Essex Counties would spend in Manhattan; and since these New Jersey suburbs will contain an enormous population of thrifty people, facility of communication between their homes and Greeley Square will mean millions of dollar's worth of difference to the business of central Manhattan—particularly to the theatres and restaurants. Every means should be taken to make the Rapid Transit Commission understand the importance of this matter.

"Wonderland" Contracts Let.

LEADING REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING FEATURES OF THE HARLEM RIVER AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISE.

The two principal contracts for the construction of the "Wonderland" amusement park were awarded this week, and work was begun on Thursday. Wells Bros. Company, of 160 Fifth av, secured the general building contract, and Harry Alexander, of 20 West 34th st, the electrical and mechanical engineering contract. The Record and Guide is officially informed that the estimate of the Wells Bros. Company was in the neighborhood of one million dollars, and Harry Alexander's about $250,000.

The electrical installation will be by far the largest of the kind in the city, exceeding anything at Coney Island. There will be, besides the central station, 250,000 lamps distributed through grounds and buildings, electric foun ains, launches, search-lights, a miniature electric railway, and motive power to be provided for various purposes. Picturesque canals will wind through the grounds, and these will be illuminated from beneath the water. There will be a great toboggan slide, an imitation of the Tyrolean Alps, Venetian effects, German and Japanese villages, beautiful gardens and many other novelties and attractions.

It is apparent from this and from the general illustration that the amount of construction work will be very large and varied. The site covers 31 acres, 26 of which were purchased from the Dyckman estate and the remainder from the American Real Estate Company, which latter tract, consisting of 40 lots, gave the amusement company an unobstructed frontage on the Harlem Ship Canal, and accessibility to steam boats. At the time of the purchase from the executors of the Dyckman estate, who are Daniel E. Seybell, Alex. M. Welch and Mrs. Isaac M. Dyckman, the amusement company held only an option on the forty lots of the American Real Estate Company, which were desired because they fronted on the ship canal, and separated the Dyckman tract from an advantageous waterfront. That option, which had until November 15 to run, was closed some weeks ago.

"Wonderland" will contain as many acres as "Luna Park" and "Dreamland" joined together. A uniform success seems to attend all such ventures. It is a matter of public knowledge that "Dreamland" netted last season over $500,000, and "Luna Park" fully 40 per cent. on the investment. "Earl's Court," in London, England, earns 30 per cent. annually. It is estimated by the promoters of "Wonderland" that it will be open 180 days in the year, and that the running expenses will be $2,450 per diem. On the bases of an average daily attendance of 25,000 people, it is calculated that the net profit for a season will be $834,000.

The total cost of construction, up to the opening day, is put at $1,500,000. The company in which Andrew J. Cobe and J. R. Hart (both of 939 Park Row building) are most prominent, is to be capitalized at $3,000,000. The real estate is to be turned over to the company at cost; that is, $750,000, subject to a first mortgage of $545,000. The mortgage is to be paid off, upon the sale of the bonds, which amount to $2,000,000, and are secured by a first mortgage upon the land and all the improvements. Every purchaser of a $1,000 bond is to receive ten shares of stock as a bonus.

The lay of the land being rolling, it is proposed to preserve much of its natural beauty, so as to reproduce some of the famous gardens of the world. Mr. Nathan Franklin Barrett is undertaking this work, while Kirby, Petit & Green, the designers of "Dreamland," will look after the architectural effects. A water way will be built around the property which will be nearly three-quarters of a mile long. A feature of the park will be the excellent restaurant service in the various villages. It is also intended to accurately reproduce the famous Latin Quarter of Paris. Hawaii and Manila will be faithfully reproduced, exhibiting an aggregation of natives in their pre-American dress and peculiar manners of living. On the south side of the property a Casino will be erected, which will compare in beauty and completeness with the famous Claremont. Close to this will be a grand music hall. At one portion of the property a canal will run through a gorge of rocks thirty feet high, and at this upper section will be constructed an Italian restaurant. At all these restaurants the prices to be charged will be such that every person visiting the grounds may purchase a meal at some restaurant within his means. A bathing pavilion with an open pool, and of large capacity, something after the style of the famous Sutro baths of San Francisco, will be constructed on the water front, being pumped from the river and tempered with steam, so that one can bathe in May or September in the same temperature of water as that obtained in August.

The foregoing are the leading features of interest to the real estate and building trades of an enterprise of exceptionally large proportions, and one that will have an important bearing upon the future of real estate throughout the Dyckman track.

Owners Will Appeal

AGAINST TENEMENT HOUSE DECISION TO U. S. SUPREME COURT.

The Court of Appeals handed down a decision on Tuesday in the two cases of the Tenement House Department against Katie Moeschen, sustaining the constitutionality of Section 100 of the Tenement House Law. That section requires the removal of school sinks, etc., in all existing tenement houses and the substitution of individual water closets. The defendant, Mrs. Moeschen, is a member of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations of the City of New York, which conducted the litigation in her behalf for the purpose of testing the constitutionality of that section of the law. Adolph Bloch, of No. 99 Nassau street, counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Associations and for Mrs. Moeschen, said:

"I have just received a telegram stating that the Court of Appeals has sustained the constitutionality of Section 100 of the Tenement House Act. I have not yet received a copy of the opinion, and therefore cannot state upon what grounds the court based its decision. The actions were defended on behalf of about six thousand owners of real estate in the city of New York, who have complied with the requirement of an act of the Legislature and the rules of the Board of Health requiring the removal of privy vaults and the substitution therefor of a system of plumbing devised by a board of experts and known as a school sink. From its use in the public school the name is derived. The present law requires these property owners to remove and destroy that which the Legislature previously required them to install at a great expense, and to substitute therefor a system of plumbing in the yard, which subjected to ordinary use would freeze; if placed in the house, necessarily in or immediately adjacent to the living rooms, a condition would be caused far less sanitary than the present system.

"The grounds of my attack on the constitutionality of that section are that the school sink on the defendant's premises which she is directed to remove, having been erected pursuant to the orders of the Board of Health of the city of New York and the mandate of the Legislature, is property and that the defendant cannot be deprived of the same without compensation; that the Legislature cannot require the removal and destruction of that which it created without compensation; that the act in question is made applicable only to cities of the first class and to tenement houses only, while all citizens of other cities and all property owners in cities of the first class owning premises other than tenement houses are free to use school sinks. Another point was that the statute compels the defendant to incur an unreasonable and unwarranted expense, equal almost to her entire equity in the property, in removing that which was created by law, and in making alterations and changes which, in the opinion of best experts, will put it in a less sanitary condition than at the present time."

Mr. Bloch stated further: "After reading the opinion of the Court of Appeals, I shall confer with members of our associations and we shall probably appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. This case is of the greatest importance to property owners, for it was important to secure a judicial decision defining and limiting the exercise of the police power by the Legislature of the State of New York in enacting laws which relate to tenement houses in this state. There is no question, even though the low be held constitutional, but that it is harsh, arbitrary, unjust and most impracticable. I think public sentiment, when the effect of the enforcement of the law is more clearly understood, will compel a reasonable amendment by the Legislature. It will work a hardship upon owners and tenants alike. Efforts will certainly be made by our associations to secure a proper and reasonable amendment of the law.

Needs of the Bronx.

AS SET FORTH IN THE TAXPAYERS' ALLIANCE—MORE PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS REQUESTED.

At a meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Borough of the Bronx, which represents forty-five local associations, held in Alliance Hall, at Third avenue and 175th street, on Wednesday evening, with Adolph C. Hottenroth as chairman and Arthur G. Bedell secretary, the committee on public improvements made a report of more than ordinary interest, which will be issued hereafter in pamphlet form. The report was read by Mr. Charles A. McRea, chairman of the committee, and in part was as follows:

"The tax on every man, woman and child in New York City is more than five times as great as in Berlin and seven times as great as that in Paris, the two foreign municipalities showing the highest rate. In spite of this it is almost impossible to get any but the most necessary public improvements out of the city's general fund. The great improvements that have been made in this borough have been paid for as a rule directly from adjoining property by assessment."

Some of the factors prohibting public improvements are, the report says, the short-sightedness of former city fathers in not making due provision for growth, in giving away our birthright of franchises and in saddling the greater city with the debts of all the ninety corporations of which it is formed. The report then continues:

"Regarding what is left for public improvements in the budget, we submit that the population of the Bronx, its contribution to the city's revenues and its many admirable sites justify and warrant the locating of fountains, plazas, monuments and arches, in addition to all necessary municipal utilities that will be second to none in any country.

"The street plan of the borough is such that it provides many suitable plots and plazas for ornamentation. Little has been done in this respect, except where the Park Department has converted waste angles into green places.

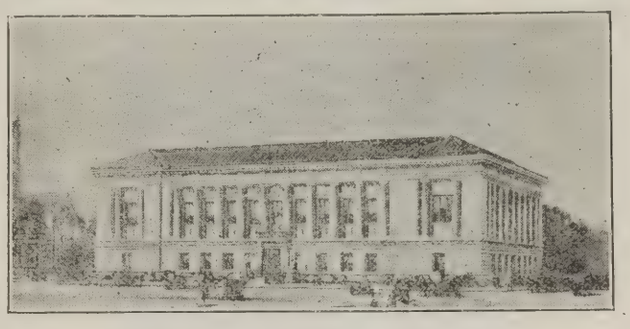
"Individual effort also can find ample scope, appreciation and welcome. New York's favorite daughter has crowned one of our locations with the most superb and unique monumental piles on the Continent, a lasting credit to the donor, honor to the country, and renown to the Bronx. Our German fellow-citizens, with commendable enterprise, placed the beautiful fountain at the entrance to the Grand Concourse.

"Much, however, remains to be done and many sites are unimproved. We have room for a statue to the Mayor who had the stamina to hew down Manhattan telegraph poles. The Alliance would furnish our George with a broad axe should he elect to crusade against the forest of poles, that have usurped the place of trees on Bronx Borough's highways.

"While we felicitate with our brethren in Manhattan over the opening of a section of the rapid transit system, thoughts naturally revert to the 149th street section. No bouquets can properly be thrown over the Harlem river to contractor or commissioners until the system as originally planned is in operation to its northern terminal at Bronx Park, and one of our main thoroughfares, 149th street, is relieved of the chaos of debris it has been burdened with for an unnecessary period of time.

"Furthermore, the practical remedy suggested by the alliance to avert the shameful herding and disgraceful overcrowding on the Third avenue L trains, namely the extension of the Third avenue track from 9th street or lower to 58th street. This should be again drummed into the rapid transit and railroad commissioners, as they seem to have ignored or pigeon-holed the subject, which has been reported on as being perfectly feasible.

"The Interborough Ry. Co. is erecting stairs to the highest elevated station in the Bronx at West Farms square. We protest against them as being an outrage and nuisance for the public use. Elderly people and delicate persons are entitled to consideration in the city of New York, and the question arises, what have elevators and escalators been designed for if not for public convenience? Regarding advertisements. We do not want them in Bronx borough stations. The alliance legal department is requested to start injunction proceedings against their installation.

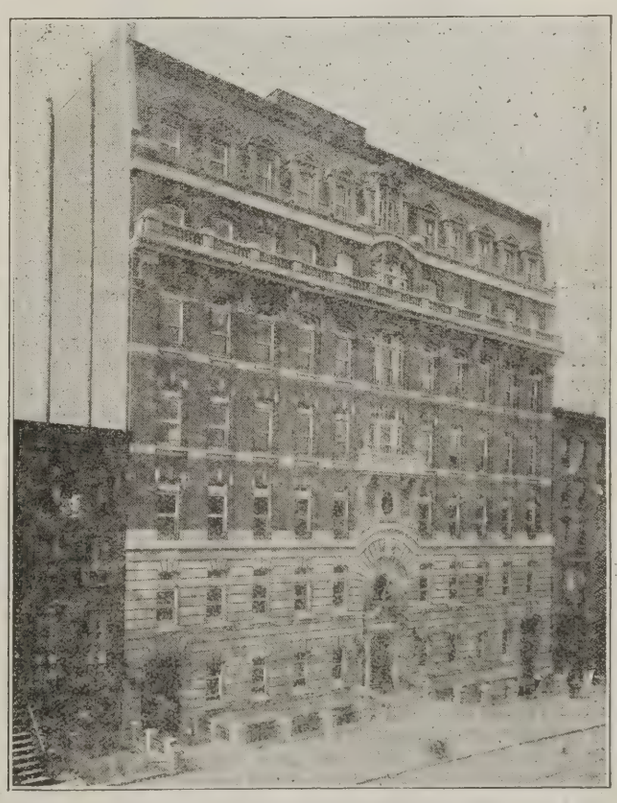


"A much needed improvement is a foot platform or bridge at 166th street from the L station to Fulton avenue. This would be one of the best improvements in the borough, making a short cut and removing a source of annoyance, difficulty and danger to residents of the locality. It would be a public benefit in the widest sense of the term, as thousands of scholars attending the Morris High School would be benefited by it.

"Transportation facilities underlie all other improvements in the upbuilding of a city, state or nation. Franchises should not be granted for subways or elevated roads that do not provide for a four-track system. This point is of vital importance for the present and future growth, rapid transit cannot be accomplished without this."

—Since the subway trains have been running, there has been opportunity to prove that the problem of protecting the Times building from vibrations from the road has been fully solved. Where it passes through the Times building the subway is carried on columns isolated from those which support the building. Each subway column rests upon a grillage of I-beams imbedded in a block of concrete, which in turn has a sand cushion set in the solid rock, and the cushion seems to take up all the vibration. It was a great feat to do this successfully, and everything depended upon it. A quivering aspen of a building would have found few tenants for its offices. Any way you take it, it is a wonderful structure, from the deep caverns in the basement to the golden ball on the top, while from the river and every point of the compass it is an impressive landmark.

Buildings of the Moment.



Buildings that have recently been brought to the attention of the public are the New York Historical Society's Building, the new French Hospital, the Breslin and the Hebrew Technical School for Girls. They are for the moment in the public eye and the timely subject for comment. The Historical Society's new home was projected some years ago, the first step toward it having been taken in 1889 as the society had long ago outgrown its present home on Second av. The site, a block front on Central Park West, from 76th to 77th st, was secured in 1891, and plans drawn by Messrs. York & Sawyer were filed with the building department in 1902. Then work upon the foundations was begun, John F. O'Rourke having secured the contract for that portion. A year later the corner stone was laid by Mayor Low with appropriate ceremonies, and then work upon the structure was suspended owing to lack of funds, leaving the foundations incomplete. The recent memorial gift of $200,000 from Mr. Henry Dexter enables the society to proceed with the work.

The general contract has been signed with the Andrew J. Robinson Co. and the work re-commenced. The contract calls for the completion of the central portion only, the end wings to remain for some future time. This central part, the main body of the structure, will be 135x115 ft. in size, three stories high, of pink Milford granite, and in the American Colonial style of architecture. It is estimated that the building will cost $400,000.

It will provide space for nearly half a million volumes and special rooms for exhibits of various sorts, will contain an auditorium on the main floor seating 400 persons, a lecture room, reception, lounging and committee rooms. On the second floor will be a big museum, two large picture galleries and a reading room. There will be a kitchen, refectory and bookbindery in the basement, a manuscript room on the second floor and three special study rooms and halls in the third story. On Tuesday, Nov. 22d, the society will celebrate with a banquet at Delmonico's its centennial anniversary.

The opening last Tuesday of the new French Hospital in West 34th st, for the reception of patients gives to the city one of the most important of its recent acquisitions.

The architects, Messrs. Welch, Smith & Provot, have designed a building seven stories in height, with a facade of red brick and limestone, and 104 ft. in length. The driveway is covered. Two floors of the structure are given up to private rooms and small wards, and two are used for the large medical and surgical wards. The operating rooms, the pathological laboratory, and the quarters of the house doctors occupy another floor. The top floor is absolutely isolated. It contains the wards for consumption and other contagious diseases.

New Yorkers have become so accustomed to the opening of new and immense hotels that an event of this nature has ceased to create more than momentary curiosity and passing comment.

THE HOTEL BRESLIN.
Clinton & Russell, Architects.

The "Breslin," at Broadway and 29th st, which opened its doors last Saturday, while not competing in plan, size or equipment with the St. Regis or the Hotel Astor offers itself as the newest type of commercial hotel. Special features of design, construction or decoration are absent. Perhaps, the only "novelty" is the ladies' grill room, or informal dining-room, in the southwest corner facing Broadway. The building, eleven stories high, covers a plot 105x176 ft., the site of the old Sturtevant House. It was built by the George A. Fuller Co. from plans by Clinton & Russell. The schemes for the decorations of the various salons, cafes, etc., are particularly noteworthy, being in "pastel" shades in exquisite combinations. There is no loud color note.

Laying the cornerstone of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls at Second av and 15th st last Friday attracted unusual attention, because ex-President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, took part in the ceremonies. The simple inscription on the granite block is, Corner Stone Laid November Eleventh, MCMIV. Work on the building of this worthy philanthropy is steadily progressing, the foundation walls having reached the curb level and some of the granite blocks for the first story having been placed. Work upon the steel frame has also begun. Messrs. Buchman & Fox are the architects. The contractors are George Vassar's Son & Co. The building will be a seven-story structure measuring 112.7x66.9. It is estimated to cost $275,000. The present home of the school is at No. 267 Henry st.

—After Weinseimer, Mulligan. Perhaps the day is near when the building business in New York will be free from extortioners and grafters of all kinds. Certainly the Employers' Association mean to prosecute every candidate for convict stripes who shall come to the front. Weinseimer's Sing Sing term will extend over something like two years, and if it depresses him as much as his stay in the Tombs, he will be a very broken man when he emerges. The defendant now at the bar is Patrick J. Mulligan, who, when a walking delegate for the Bricklayers' Union last year, attempted to extort the sum of $874 from Otto Schwarzler, a builder. The defence in this case is likely to be that the sum was demanded in consideration of "waiting time," with the consent of the union; and in the event of such a plea being made, the somewhat general practice of demanding waiting time will be inquired into by the courts. The theory of the prosecution is that Mulligan had no right to exact the money. If the practice is judicially branded as a form of extortion and consequently stopped, the master builders will be thus relieved from what has become a serious imposition.

Growth of a Real Estate Market.

ADDRESS OF JOHN L. PARISH BEFORE THE WEST SIDE Y. M. C. A.—NEW YORK THE BEST FIELD.

The real estate class of the Y. M. C. A. held its fifth meeting at the West Side Branch, on Tuesday night of this week. After a brief talk on the present real estate market by Mr. Henry Harmon Neill, the teacher, Mr. John L. Parish, of Parish, Fisher, Mooney & Co., addressed the class on "The Growth and Development of a Real Estate Market, and the Advantages of Publicity in Connection Therewith." The speaker said in part:

"The term real estate market implies a market dealing in some commodity—the buying and selling of real estate. Real estate in this sense is taken to be land unimproved and improved. If you look at the subject in its brightest and most universal aspect, the whole world is your field and the whole world is a commodity. But I would not have you think of it in that sense if you wish for success in your undertaking.

"How essential to the welfare of men is this earth of ours. How much we get out of it. Everything that you appreciate as wealth—the house you live in, the furniture in the house, the bed you sleep upon, etc., everything that you consider as wealth of a valuable possession has its origin in the soil. It is the ingenuity and industry of the human being that transforms this original substance into the semblance of wealth—the things that you appreciate.

"In a great city like New York, which you have probably chosen for your field of operations (and you could not have chosen a better), you will see little of the agricultural element. But the city depends to an extraordinary extent on its agricultural resources. In fact, if left without those resources, New York would be nothing in a very little while; it would be depopulated.

"When private property in land first became an established institution is a fact that is lost in the mazes of ancient history. It antedates history. We read in the sacred history that Cain and Abel were possessors of soil, one of them a farmer, the other a stock raiser, but the implication is that they roamed about and choosed their place of cultivation of the soil and the place for herding their flocks at will where best it suited them. The first recorded real estate transaction is also given us in sacred history, viz.: Genesis, 23d chapter. It is written very much as it might have been written to-day by one of my colleagues of the press. It takes some things for granted and leaves something for inference, as you will see when the story is read.

"Tenures of land ownership are various the world over. Title does not descend freely in some of the most civilized nations of the earth, but wherever private ownership prevails in the world, there is a real estate market: there has been buying and selling of real estate. The market for real estate comprises something more than the selling of the land itself. It means dealing in leaseholds, the management and running of property, the negotiation of mortgages, the promotion of building enterprises. That is the outline of the business of the real estate broker.

"When the broker came upon the scene is also a mystery of history. He was recognized first of all as a dealer in private property, as an appraiser of property and then as a seller of bills of exchange and strange forms of money, and not until later as a seller of real estate. He seems to have been preceeded in the selling of real estate by the agent or personal representative of the owner, who in some instances had the power of possession and of conveyance of the property himself. The broker is not such an agent. His business is different from that of the agent or steward in that he never has possession of the property himself.

"Through publicity the public have acquired a more general knowledge of the values of real estate. If your customers have no knowledge of values or have difficulty in ascertaining values, they will be difficult customers. I know of no business, no calling, that is transacted so much on faith, where the customer must rely so far in the skill and experience of his adviser, as that of the real estate broker.

NEW EPOCH IN NEW YORK.

"The recent opening of the subway is as important an epoch in the development of the city as the construction and opening of the elevated road was twenty-six or twenty-seven years ago. You will recall that the effect of the opening of this road was a rapid development of real estate interests all along the lines tributary to it. People were first afraid that we were overdoing things, and as a writer upon real estate in those days, or subsequent to that period, said: 'It seemed to me on many an occasion as though the city was being over-built.' But I consulted with older men, and they stated that it had occurred to them many and many a time, but that people had seemed to come and fill the buildings, and they are coming now.

"If a young man of enterprise anywhere upon this earth stops to consider for a moment where he ought to locate, where he ought to go and establish himself, in order to realize the utmost possibilities, the best opportunities for success in his chosen career seems to me first of all he must set his mind upon New York City as opening up the best prospect for success in any field of endeaver. It is the remarkable and substantial continuance of progress and growth of this city in every element of strength and wealth, that is the best sort of a foundation upon which to build your business. It is a good city to live in, and there is no reason why it should not continue to grow.

"I cannot but congratulate you that you have chosen this profession of real estate broker. I know of no other that offers better opportunities for material prosperity and for the enjoyment of life, but again I wish to impress upon you this one fact as it has appeared to me from my experience in the business, and that is that the primary essential to success is the building of character."

On next Tuesday, Mr. John R. Foley will address the class on "Expert Testimony as to Valuation in Condemnation Proceedings."

Sub-Division of Mt. Washington.

FIRST GOOD OPPORTUNITY FOR INDIVIDUAL BUILDING —RESTRICTED TO PRIVATE DWELLINGS.

From the operations of the past two weeks on Fort Washington Heights one can now more clearly discern than has been possible at any time in the past the character of the future building in that region. Following the announcement of the immense acquisitions by a syndicate closely allied with the Central Realty, Bond & Trust Company, curiosity was at once expressed as to how the property would be handled by its new owners. In view of all the circumstances this was a natural wonderment.

Here was a picturesque ridge of land, which Nature had especially distinguished. Set in a commanding position, but apart from the main tide of travel, it is suddenly brought within the arc of general availability for residential purposes. Certain natural features seemed to require that development should be restricted to detached residences of a costly type, while commercial instincts and precedents clamored for its utilization in the ordinary unlovely ways of miscellaneous city construction.

In laying out city streets on Mount Washington, a year ago, City Engineer Webster was permitted to favor the higher type of development. After several meetings with the original property owners and their representatives he was able to obtain their unanimous approval for the present official city map. One of the avowed intentions of the layout is to favor building of a suburban character in certain quarters.

The purchases recently made by the syndicate headed by Henry Morgenthau, president of the Central Realty, Bond & Trust Company, and Mr. Max Marx, are intended for the first sub-division of consequence in the Fort Washington neighborhood. In other words, it is the first real opportunity for individual building. Counting the acquisition of the Woodbury Langdon estate as the last, the syndicate now controls about four hundred and fifty lots lying between 177th and 181st sts, with Broadway on the east and the Boulevard Lafayette on the west.

When interrogated for the Record & Guide, Mr. Marx said this week that it is the idea to build up a new residential section. All its holdings, with the exception of a strip 150 feet wide on the west side of Broadway, will be restricted to private dwellings. Many will no doubt be detached residences. The part fronting on Broadway will be improved with apartment houses.

David Stewart, who is prominently known in connection with Fort Washington property, agreed that the portion the syndicate had secured is exceptionally well situated. The natural lay of the land was very fine, he said, more so than the land north and south. He thought, referring to the ridge generally, that it would be principally devoted to private dwellings. Such apartment houses as would rise would be different from anything else in Manhattan. They would have grass plots around them, and contain large home-like rooms. J. Romain Brown said that the Loyal Smith holding, extending from 159th st and the Boulevard Lafayette to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, will be retained by him until the street lots sell for $10,000, and the avenue lots for $15,000 each. Mr. Smith intends to improve and will restrict any improvement by others to a good class of buildings.

It is believed that the holders of tracts will generally place restrictions of a similar character. The Morgenthau-Marx syndicate have set a minimum cost for houses on certain streets. Mr. Morgenthau himself will reside in the Langdon house, around which he will reserve about three acres for his private grounds. It is expected that other residences, especially those overlooking the Hudson, will have extensive grounds.

Among brokers much interest is expressed concerning the effect upon Dyckman tract property of the new "Wonderland" enterprise. Some think it will not be a detriment to the neighborhood, but fear that it may halt certain other interests for a time.

Protest Against New Fire-Escape Law.

The United Real Estate Owners' Associations will cause a bill to be introduced at the next session of the Legislature which will authorize the retention of fire-escapes in courts open to the street or yard, and which courts are not more than thirty-five feet deep and more than five feet wide.

Under the construction of the law by the Corporation Counsel, all fire-escapes built even in a slight depression or recess, are unauthorized, and thousands of owners are receiving orders requiring the construction of fire-escapes upon the front of their houses. Adolph Bloch, counsel for the associations, said this week:

"The result is that the appearance of these houses will be seriously marred and defaced, ornamentation destroyed and the owners put to a great expense unreasonably and without adding in the slightest to the safety of the occupants of the building.

"It must certainly be conceded by any reasonable and fair man that fire-escapes located in such depressions connected with adjoining buildings are more safe in case of fire than balconies constructed on the front of the house with connecting ladders leading to the street. This is also a subject of the greatest importance to owners as well as to tenants. Actions are now pending in which an effort will be made to secure a judicial construction of the law.

"The proposed bill has been submitted to Commissioner Crain for his consideration. The bill is substantially the same as the Wallace bill which he introduced at our request last year, and for which we had the approval of the City Club and the gentlemen who constituted the original Tenement House Commission which framed the law."

The Street Sign Question.

A movement for a better street sign system for the whole of Greater New York was started on Friday, November 11th, at the rooms of the Bar Association on 43d st. The following organizations were represented: City Club, Frederick S. Hall; Harlem Board of Commerce, William A. Martin; Independent Club of the Twenty-first Assembly District, Charles De Hart Brower; Merchants' Association, F. B. Deberard; Municipal Art Society, Edmund Dwight; New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Frank B. Thurber and Frank B. Greene; Riverside and Morningside Heights Association, Vincent Loeser and F. M. Burdick; Real Estate Board of Brokers, Frank R. Houghton; Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, A. J. Shipman, Walter Stabler and Benjamin L. Blauvelt, and West End Association, Cyrus Clark, George B. Sheppard and John L. Brower. After two hours' discussion and a personal inspection of various styles of signs, the following resolution was passed:

RESOLVED, That proper street signs are necessary for the welfare of the city, and that the movement to this end, which has been begun, should be continued and extended; that a committee, consisting of one from each organization here represented, be appointed by the chairman, with power to add one representative from each kindred organization favoring this object, to urge upon the city authorities the importance of the improvement to be made with the approval of the Municipal Art Commission.

And that such committee be instructed to present to the president of the borough a demand for the complete signing of the city upon the following plans:

First—For all electric light poles, and Second—For all Welsbach lights the installation of the so-called reflector signs.

Third—For all elevated railroad pillars at street intersections, and

Fourth—For all street corners where it is necessary to use the walls of buildings, a metal sign of blue enamel with white letters, and Fifth—For all gas lamps a sign of blue flash glass with white letters.

Personal.

Paul Pfotenhauer, of the firm of Pfotenhauer & Nesbit, sailed on Tuesday, November 15th, via s.s. Bremen of the North German Lloyd line, for a two months' trip in Europe. The journey is partly brought about by the necessity of his presence at the manufacturing of a large order of their imported tiles, similar to those which they furnished for the Schwab mansion in this city. Mr. Pfotenhauer will be back about February 1st next.

A social event of interest in the city's official circles was the marriage of Florence Dooner, the daughter of Former Superintendent of Buildings John A. Dooner, which occurred last Monday night; the groom being David A. O'Brien, a young business man of Manhattan. The ceremony took place at St. Anthony's Church, in Sullivan st, in one of the wards of the old New York in which the family have lived for very many years. Nearly 1,000 invitations were issued and the old church was crowded by city officials and department attaches and their ladies.

Gossip of the Week.

Peter F. Meyer will sell at the New York Real Estate salesroom, 161 Broadway, on Tuesday, November 22, by order of the executor of Eliza Voorhees, deceased, the valuable property, 607 and 609 Hudson st and 316 to 320 West 12th st, being the southwest corners of those streets.

L. J. Phillips & Co. will sell on Wednesday, November 23 at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, 161 Broadway, thirty-eight parcels of lots and four houses, being the remainder of the Henry D. Tiffany property. The lots are on West Farms road, Westchester av, Home st, Freeman st, Edgewater road, Boone av, and the Southern Boulevard, and are all in the boom section and will be greatly benefited by the opening of the rapid transit road.

Charles T. Barney offers for sale nearly twelve blocks of vacant property on Washington Heights. The lots are located on Amsterdam, Audubon, Eleventh and Wadsworth avenues and Broadway, and on nearly all the side streets from 167th to 188th streets. The lots, it will be noticed, are all in a section of great activity, and that they are convenient to the rapid transit stations, there being one at 168th and one at 181st streets. Mr. Barney has already sold the blocks from 183d to 184th, 186th to 187th streets, between Wadsworth avenue and Broadway, and 184th to 185th streets from Amsterdam avenue to Audubon avenue, and 186th and 187th streets from Audubon to Eleventh avenue, a large part of which were sold to builders. On another page of this issue will be found a plan of the blocks which are offered for sale.

While the speculation in lots along the line of the subway still appears to be the absorbing topic among real estate brokers, they do not, as has been the case for a number of weeks, make up the majority of the transactions reported. On William street, near the Brooklyn Bridge, there were several purchases by a speculator. The trade reported early in the week by Peter Herter of the Antoinettes on Park avenue and Fifty-ninth street, for Brooklyn lots, may also be considered good business, as it takes an improved parcel from a builder and gives him some more raw material to work with. From South, Centre, Platt and Greenwich streets there were also sales of business properties. The totals for the week for Manhattan and The Bronx were three hundred and twenty-one, of which one hundred and seventy were in Manhattan. Of these, sixty-two were tenements, nineteen dwellings and eighty-five lots or old buildings suitable for improvement. Of the lots, two hundred and ninety-four were in the Washington Heights section. Of the one hundred and fifty-one Bronx deals, one hundred and thirty were in vacant property, representing, as near as one can judge without a surveyor, one thousand one hundred and thirty-one lots.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Material Market.

BARGAIN DAYS FOR BUILDERS.

Mr. Leonard K. Prince, vice-president of the Building Trades Association and head of the Prince Iron Works in West 33d st, speaking this week of the state of business in the structural iron trade, remarked:

"The iron trade is suffering a fulfillment of all the predictions of low prices and keen competition for orders, largely due, I believe to labor troubles. Building operations have been checked to such an extent that there is not business enough to preserve a satisfactory adjustment of supply and demand.

"These are bargain days for the builder, general contracts for structural steel being taken at extremely low prices. We are hardly finding a normal demand for steel beams and structural material for immediate delivery from stock, and the demand for such material is principally for apartment houses in the speculative section.

"I expect very much improved labor conditions next year, a markedly increased activity in the building industry and a proportionate improvement in the local iron trade."

BRICK PRICES STILL ASCENDING.

Ninety cargoes of Hudson River brick were disposed of in the wholesale market last week, which shows the amount of bricklaying in the city to be far above the average of recent years. Current quotations for good brick are: $7½@7¾; light hard, $6¼@6⅝; pale, $5¼@5⅝. It will be observed that prices are still tending upward.

Speaking this week of the condition of the market, Francis N. Howland, president of the association of dealers in masons' materials, said: "My hope and trust is that the manufacturers of common brick on the North River will come to the conclusion that the best interests of all concerned in making, distributing and using common brick will be conserved by allowing prices to remain as at present until the close of navigation for this season, when quotations can be advanced so as to meet the expense of storing on barges for winter use.

"The current prices of other materials compare very favorably with the quotations of previous years, with the exception of Portland cement, which is extremely low in price, and with lath, which are exceptionally high at this time. On the whole, I should say that the average cost of building is greater this year than in any year preceding."

As announced recently the name of Mr. Howland's corporation has been changed to the Candee, Smith & Howland Co. It was away back in 1849 that this well-known business was started by Julius A. Candee at the foot of East 26th st. General George Moore Smith became a partner in 1871 and Francis N. Howland in 1892. Mr. Candee died in 1896 and David B. Arnold in 1897, leaving Mr. Smith and Mr. Howland sole surviving members. The firm was changed to a corporation in 1900 under the name of "Candee & Smith," and on the second day of this month the name was changed by order of the court to the Candee, Smith & Howland Co., a corporation.

CEMENT BUSINESS.

Cement conditions have materially improved. The price has advanced from five to ten cents per barrel in the past month. The local demand for spot delivery for immediate use is very good, without any apparent speculative element in it. The manager of one concern said: "In the past few days we have sold 15,000 barrels for immediate use on Brooklyn buildings, and have from the same source an order for 1,000 barrels per day for the next ten days, and if the winter remains open we expect a very good trade right through the year."

THE STONE TRADE.

The stone cutters on strike are gradually giving in. They went out to enforce their demand that five stone cutters shall be employed to every planer used. Reports from the yards show that some of the employers are quietly getting a good force to work on their own terms, some of these being old hands, and they are running their planers and employing as many stone cutters for each one as their business justifies. Important brick jobs that were being held up are, therefore, going ahead again.

ELEVATOR CONTRACT.

The Elektron Manufacturing Co., of Springfield, Mass., whose New York office is in charge of R. J. Huntington, at 156 5th av, has just closed contracts for electric elevators to be installed in the Black Building, at the northeast corner of Frankfort and William sts, Milliken Bros., general contractors, and in the McDermott-Bunger Dairy Co. Building, at 91-97 Manhattan st. The company has just placed four large elevators in the Hearn Department Store addition on West 13th st, and three full automatic electric dumb-waiters of the most modern type in the new building of Tiffany & Co., 37th st and 5th av.

This company was one of the pioneer concerns in the manufacture of electric elevators and in the fuller development and construction of them. It owns the highest type of the magnet control. More than sixty high-class electric elevators put in by this company are now running in the Fifth avenue section between 14th and 23d sts. Among some of the contracts in New York handled by this concern were the Martha Washington Hotel, the 10-sty building at 23-25 East 21st st, erected by the Merrick Construction Co.; the Supply Department Building in East 68th st, for the use of the Board of Education, and the marble mill at 140th st and Locust av. When is a lease in New York City taxable?

Answer.—A lease made for twenty-one years with renewals is not taxable, but a straight lease for a term of more than twenty-one years is.

TAXES.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

At what date in the County of New York is an assessment or tax an actual lien on real estate so that it must be paid by a grantor?

Answer.—An assessment is a lien on real estate when confirmed by the court and entered in the Record of Titles and Assessments. Taxes are a lien against property on the first Monday in October, which this year was on Monday, Oct. 3.

TAKE THE MONEY AND LOOK PLEASED.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

How long will it take to reach a case of supplementary proceedings? I understand the calendar is so full that it would take about two years at least. If this is the case, what can a landlord do who leases his property with the understanding that the lease is not to be assigned without his written consent, but is afterward assigned without his consent, provided the rent is paid regularly by the person to whom the lease is assigned?

Answer.—(1) If your question is how long before an action can be tried in the Supreme Court or the City Court (County of New York), and in case a judgment for money is recovered by the plaintiff, and not paid, when the judgment debtor can be examined on supplementary proceedings, then, in about three years from the beginning of the action this could be accomplished. (2) He had better take his rent and make no fuss.

THE JANITOR'S PLACE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

The owner of a house engages a janitor, giving him three rooms and $5 per month. Wishing him to leave, must I give him thirty days' notice, or can I simply put him out?

Answer.—The janitor is the servant (and not the tenant) of his master, and unless his holding over, after his employment has ceased, is with the consent of his master, or for so long as to imply consent, the termination of the janitor's employment, whether by the janitor's abandonment thereof, or by his discharge therefrom, terminates the janitor's right to occupy his master's premises and the master then has the present right to repossess himself thereof and to use all necessary force to eject the servant therefrom. (See Hayward vs. Miller, 3 Hill, 90. Jennings vs. McCarthy, 40 State Reporter, 679.) But if the janitor remains in his master's premises after his discharge with the master's consent, express or implied, the janitor becomes a tenant at will and is entitled to thirty days' notice to quit. (See Chapter 547 Laws of 1896, Section 198, known as the Real Property Law.)

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A, agent, lets house with store and takes deposit at 10 a. m. Sept. 2 for one year at $50 per month, rent to be paid from Sept. 1st and possession given if satisfactory to B, owner. C, painter, calls on B, owner, on Sept. 1st and states he has a party to take store and house, stating he received the keys from A, agent, through another party to go through house. B, owner, calls with C, party, on A, agent, at 2 p. m., Sept. 2nd, to obtain keys to go through house and store so that every thing would be satisfactory. A, agent clerk, said the keys are out. B, owner, takes $10 deposit from C, party, to show the house and store on Sept. 6th, and take the balance of rent if satisfactory which would be $30, agreeing with C, party, to have the house and store for $40 per month from the 15th of Sept., 1904, to the 15th of Sept., 1905. A, agent, notifies B, owner, on Sept. 3d, that he has let the house and store, reference satisfactory. B, owner, accepts his tenant on the 6th of Sept. C, party, refuses to take back deposit, stating he has sold out his business and would sue B, owner, for his loss. Kindly let me know if B, owner, is responsible, and what I should do with his $10 deposit, as he refuses to take it?

A SEWER QUESTION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A, B, C, D and E own five 20-foot lots facing on an avenue. They have a private sewer running across the rear of the lots, connecting with the sewer on the side street adjoining on the north. D and E are about to build a large flat on the two end lots. Can they cut off the sewer and force the owners of the other three lots to make connection with the sewer on the avenue? The sewer has been in existence over forty years. (The diagram below will give an idea of the situation.)

Answer.—The general rule is that the lots nearest the side street would be subject to right of the other owners to use the sewer leading to the side street, provided the marks of this burden are open and visible or proper notice had on the purchase of the same. (Lampman vs. Milks, 21 N. Y., 505. Curtiss vs. Ayrault, 47 N. Y., 73. Rogers vs. Sinsheimer, 50 N. Y., 646. Gilligan vs. Feuschter, 8 State Reporter, 220. Ward vs. Warren, 82 N. Y., 265.) And in the absence of such direct notice these marks must be not only such as are visible, or necessarily seen, but such as may be seen or known on a careful inspection by a person ordinarily conversant with the subject. (Harned vs. Griffith, 49 Howard, 305. Stuyvesant vs. Early, 35 Miscellaneous, 644.)

But in the absence of direct notice, if the marks of the burden are not open and visible, or could not be so ascertained, then the contrary rule would apply. (Butterworth vs. Crawford, 46 N. Y., 349. Munsion vs. Reid, 46 Hun, 399. Treadwell vs. Inslee, 120 N. Y., 458.) And such servitude must be strictly necessary to the enjoyment of the property benefited by the easement, otherwise it will not be continued. (Outerbridge vs. Phelps, 13 Jones & Spencer, 555. Parsons vs. Johnson, 68 N. Y., 62. Whyte vs. Builders' League of New York, 164 N. Y., 429.)

It would seem therefore that this easement is no longer necessary, as all of the owners can now readily connect with the sewer in the avenue, and therefore its continuance would not now be enforced.

CONVEYANCES

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street or avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property; the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before 2d figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

DYCKERHOFF PORTLAND CEMENT

is made in Germany. When first introduced in the United States, some twenty-five years ago, its superior strength, correct chemical composition and absolute uniformity were quickly appreciated and placed it above all other Cements in the market. The Dyckerhoff brand maintains the original superiority;—its perfection has not been approached by any other Cement.

You cannot afford to be bothered by roofs asking to be done over. Using "Taylor Old Style" tin leaves you time to do your best work always.

N. & G. TAYLOR COMPANY
ESTABLISHED 1810
Philadelphia

"Rufus the Roofer" is a breezy booklet, in which the roof question is threshed out in a new vein. It will be sent to anyone on receipt of ten cents in stamps, and is worth more than that simply as entertaining reading.

Vol. LXXIV. November 26, 1904. No. 1915.

THE bull market continues with unabated momentum, and the time is not very far off when the majority of active stocks will have reached the level of two years. We doubt whether in the history of Wall Street a larger and more continuous recovery has succeeded such a large continuous slump—all within the space of eighteen or twenty months. The question is rapidly becoming acute whether the swing of the pendulum has carried the level of prices too high, or whether they will go higher still before they go lower. Every indication points to a still higher level in the immediate future, particularly for the industrials. It is freely predicted that Steel Preferred will go to par or even to 110, and if so the other good industrial stocks will not lag far behind. The question is, however, whether they are worth as much as par or more than par for investment purposes, and the answer is that, although they probably will be worth par or more eventually, the time has not yet come when they can be expected to maintain prices so unprecedentedly high. Their position as investments is better than it was two years ago, and the preferred stocks of the conservatively managed companies may be expected to sell eventually on almost a six per cent. basis; but further vicisitudes are to be expected before this desirable result is obtained. As to railroad stocks, they are selling now on a basis that does not offer very tempting returns in interest, and reasons for any further advances in these securities must come from "deals" and similar strategic financiering.

THE most salient characteristic of the real estate market during the past week has been the evidence afforded of broadening activity. The speculation in Bronx and Washington Heights lots still dominates the trading; but not to the same extent as formerly. The buying is better than it has been in several important directions. In the first place Mr. Haggin's renewed desire to build on the land formerly owned by the Progress Club, with which the improvement in the stock market is probably directly associated, indicates plainly that during 1905 the very expensive residence property will probably again be in good demand. The pace which was maintained in 1902 will not be equalled, but a number of important new and expensive residences, the construction of which was abandoned in 1903, will be resumed, and new ones will be started. Then Mr. J. P. Morgan's purchase of the Stokes house, which completes his ownership of the block-front, foreshadows the building of what may well be the most magnificent residence in New York City. This residence may not be started immediately; but Mr. Morgan assuredly intends to build it, and there will be others. In another direction, also, an excellent demand is being developed, and that is for property on the margin of the most expensive business district down town. During the next few years many sky-scrapers will be erected on the narrow streets in these districts; and the reason simply is that the property more conveniently situated is already either improved or withdrawn from the market. The new sky-scrapers will be built chiefly on Washington, West and William sts. and on some of the many smaller streets to the east of William st. As to the speculation in lots it is not developing any new characteristics. In volume it is about the same as ever; but that is all there is to say about it. It may be remarked, however, that so far as the Bronx is concerned dealing in improved property has ceased almost entirely. Thus during the past week out of about 110 sales of Bronx property over 90 were vacant lots. This is too large a proposition to constitute a healthy market.

IT is rather discouraging to hear that the Rapid Transit Commission is waiting for more legislation before offering any new subway routes to public competition, but at all events the legislation which is wanted looks in the right direction. Two provisions are to be borrowed from the so-called Elsberg Bill. One is that future subways shall be subject to taxation, and the other is that the Commission shall have the power to construct additional subways itself, provided proper terms cannot be obtained from private companies. The Record and Guide was the first responsible newspaper in the city to point out the necessity of granting such a power to the Rapid Transit Commission. Private companies are extremely loth to pay the full value of transit franchises into the municipal treasury; and the only way the Commission can protect itself against a combination of possible bidders for the purpose of cheapening any franchises which may be offered is by the possession of the power to construct, if necessary, an independent line with the city's own money. It may never be necessary to use this power; but it will be a valuable weapon to be used in negotiation. There can be no doubt that in the long run the two interests, which control the Interborough and the New York City Railway Companies will unite and that when this time comes the Commission will need every possible resource in order to keep the Octopus from devouring the enormous profit to be derived from the subway transit system.

More Rapid Transit.

THE Subway has now been in operation a sufficiently long time to enable the observer to estimate accurately the extent to which it will improve the conditions, under which the residents of Manhattan and the Bronx can travel up and down Manhattan. The first remark is, of course, that however convenient it is to many thousand people, it has not perceptibly diminished the overcrowding of trains during the rush hours. The proportion of passengers who obtain a seat when travel is heaviest is apparently not much larger than it was before. And this is always the extraordinary thing about any improvement in the means of communication of a city like New York. Every new line of transit creates, as it were, its own traffic, and does not materially diminish the number of passengers carried by other lines. Thus, during the first twelve days of November, the Subway must have carried somewhere near 2,500,000 passengers, and it might have been supposed that the majority of these fares would have been obtained at the expense of the elevated roads. Such, however, was not the case. The cars of the Manhattan company carried only about 113,000 fewer passengers during that period, and while the loss of the New York City Railway Company may have been heavier, it cannot have been very much heavier. The fact is, of course, that the better the machinery, the larger the travel. It must be remembered, also, that the Subway will also create its own traffic in another sense. Within a few years it will have encouraged thousands f people to live on Washington Heights, and these families will, of course, be so circumstanced that they will depend almost exclusively on the Subway for their means of travel. Of course, the carrying capacity of the tunnel can be increased, but, obviously, the utmost energy should be used to provide additional facilities against the day when the capacity of the existing Subway will be severely strained.

There are two ways of adding to the transit machinery of the city. One is by building new lines, and the other is by making the most of the lines already in existence. The work of laying out new routes is necessarily slow; but that of improving the existing machinery needs less consideration, and has the advantage of being possible of quick completion. We mentioned a few weeks ago a plan for the complete utilization of the elevated structures, which was being considered; and, since during the past week this plan has been definitely announced and fully outlined, it may be expected that it will soon become a matter of actual negotiation. All of the proposed improvements look, as they should, towards the development of the express service. The plan is to add two tracks to the Second Avenue line, thus giving it four tracks throughout its entire length. The two additional tracks will be used for express trains exclusively during the rush hours, and the cars will be run in the same direction on both tracks. The expectation is that in this way the people living in the Bronx and working down town will be supplied with a much improved service. At the same time the Third Avenue line will be third-tracked as far South as Ninth St., so that the express trains on that structure, which will serve the upper East Side of Manhattan, can make very much better time. Finally, the third track on the Ninth Avenue structure is to be extended south of Christopher st to Rector st. There can be no doubt that these improvements of the elevated structures would be a wonderful boon to the people of the city. They have the particular merit of giving most help to those parts of the city which most need help, viz., the East Side of the Bronx and Manhattan; and the new tracks could doubtless be in full operation within a year after they are authorized. The Commission can afford to offer the Interborough Co. liberal terms for the privilege of laying these tracks. The company will, in any event, have heavy damages to pay to property-owners, and these damages will diminish very much the value of the privileges to the company. They should be regarded as the most available means of adding to existing means of communication, pending the laying out and the construction of additional subways.

The suggestion is made in the daily journals that the additional tracks added to the East Side elevated structures would dispense with the early construction of a Lexington Ave. line north from 42d st; but such is not the case. The Lexington Ave. line is necessary to the convenience of the people who live west of Lexington Ave. It should, in any case, be constructed; but, in view of the fact that it can be only a three-track road, it should be planned as a local line, for the use of the upper East Side of Manhattan. The express tracks on the Second Ave. elevated structures will take care of the Bronx until the time comes for a four-track subway on First Ave. On the other hand, a lower West Side extension south of 42d st will never serve its purpose, unless it is made throughout a four-track tunnel. It cannot be too often repeated that it is the express service of the Subway which constitutes its popular and important feature, and that the most important mistake made in designing the Subway was that of helping the express trackage is too small. What Manhattan and the Bronx need first, last, and always is a better express service, and more of it. In no other way can the awkward length of the island be neutralized.

Cannot Permit Disruption of the Employers' Association

By Lewis Harding

In reply to your request for my views upon the labor troubles in the building trade, permit me to say, first, that my views must be considered as personal and not as the views of the Building Trades Employers' Association. I call your attention to this on account of my official connection with that Association.

At the outset let me say that, after carefully reading Mr. Theodore Starrett's article in the last issue of the Record and Guide, I am unable to find a single suggestion from its beginning to its end, that if put into practical operation would not more seriously complicate the present condition of the building trade. Although Mr. Starrett's own company is a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association and several of the trade associations that are part of that body, he by inference and innuendo charges that that organization is a combination to control prices and restrict competition, and in order to maintain successfully this condition has entered into unfair and illegal agreements with trade unions. In answer to this I will, in the first place, quote Article II. of the Constitution:

"The objects of this Association shall be to foster the interests of those engaged in the erection and construction of buildings and other structures, to reform abuses relating to the business of persons so engaged, to secure freedom from unjust and unlawful exactions, to obtain and diffuse accurate and reliable information as to all matters affecting such persons, to procure uniformity, harmony and certainty in the relations existing between employers, employees, mechanics and laborers, and in all lawful ways to promote and protect the business interests of the members of this Association, but there is no intention, nor shall there be any action on the part of this Association to control or in any way deal with prices or restrict competition."

He cites a condition which he terms the "golden age" of the building business in New York City, where the work in several trades in connection with large building operations was divided among the members of a small coterie by agreement. This is a condition that I have never heard of in the Building Trades Employers' Association, and I can say advisedly that it does not exist in that Association.

To substantiate this statement permit me to call the public's attention to a number of large out-of-town concerns that have come to this city where they are now doing business and have constructed, or are to-day constructing, some of New York's most important buildings:

Wells Brothers, Chicago, Geo. A. Fuller Co., Chicago,
John Griffith & Son, Chicago, Jas. Stewart, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Norcross Brothers, Worcester, Mass.,

I could name others but I think it only necessary to show that that portion of Mr. Starrett's article was at least an error. The majority of the above-mentioned firms are members of the Building Trades Employers' Association—the others can be if they so desire.

That in some few trades a closed shop agreement exists which prohibits the members of the union in that trade working for others than members of the Employers' Association of that trade, is a condition, which I must admit, is one to be deplored, but the condition existed before those associations became members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and also before the unions became parties to the Arbitration Plan; but I doubt very much whether the Building Trades Employers' Association would endorse a renewal of such an agreement between a union and an Employers' Association, a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association.

I further wish to call attention to the fact that the cause of the sympathetic strike which is the violation of the Arbitration Plan that caused the Building Trades Employers' Association to suspend business in several branches of the building industry on August 8th and resume business August 22d, with other men who have since been organized into unions, was because the stone work for the Trinity Building was quarried and cut in Indiana and brought to this city, the Building Trades Employers' Association taking a stand exactly opposite to that mentioned by Mr. Starrett.

CHANGES IN THE BUILDING INDUSTRY.

Progress and improvement has brought about changes in the methods of doing business in the building industry the same as it has in the methods of doing business in other lines. The department store has changed the conditions in many lines of trade, yet because they have departments taking in most every line of business under the sun, all of those different lines such as clothing, shoes, hats, furniture, groceries, provisions and the like are still carried on independently and there seems to be room for all.

So it is with the department store builders who are generally known as Construction Companies. To carry on the various departments in a department store it requires a man at the head of each department, well versed in that special line of business; and he is usually an expensive one; and similarly the construction company in the building business finds itself in the same position.

In the different lines that they do themselves without subletting, they find the cost of maintaining their department prevents them from very long under-bidding the general contractor of the old type who sublets all his work except that branch with which he himself is thoroughly familiar.

The one and only suggestion that might be a remedy in the present labor troubles mentioned in Mr. Starrett's article, is that of the open shop, a condition, the right of which to exist, is established by the Constitution of the United States.

AS TO THE OPEN SHOP.

I question very much whether it could be established in this city in the erection of buildings where the employment of men in from thirty to forty separate and distinct trades is necessary. I know that it has been a much talked of and advocated policy through the public press and otherwise for the last two or three years, yet when the building public is already beginning to criticise the Employers' Association for standing for a principle that in the first place recognized the rights of the mechanic to organize and secondly to deal only with such organized labor, and furthermore was not a question that involved an increase of hours or a reduction in wages it seems to me that they would hardly stand for the fight that would be necessary and the expense that it would involve to establish the open shop.

Personally, I do not believe that arbitration has failed. I believe that many of the unions working under it to-day are doing so because they believe it is the right principle. I am also ready to believe that some of the Unions last year signed the plan because they thought it the most expedient thing to do at the time. Those unions have continually violated it on the slightest pretext, but now unions have been established in those trades and many of the individual members of the old unions are now members of the new. I think it is reasonable to believe that with the present trouble settled, the membership of the Building Trades Employers' Association increased until it embraces all of the important employers in the building industry, that the building public will then be assured of industrial peace. But to my mind it can no more permit the disruption of the Building Trades Employers' Association than a city could dispense with its police force, a state with its militia or a nation with its army and navy.

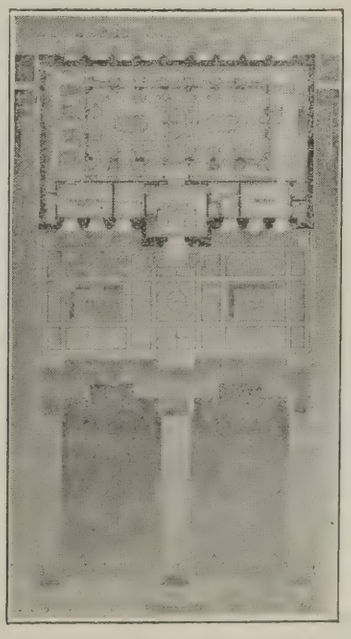
Hispanic Society's Museum.



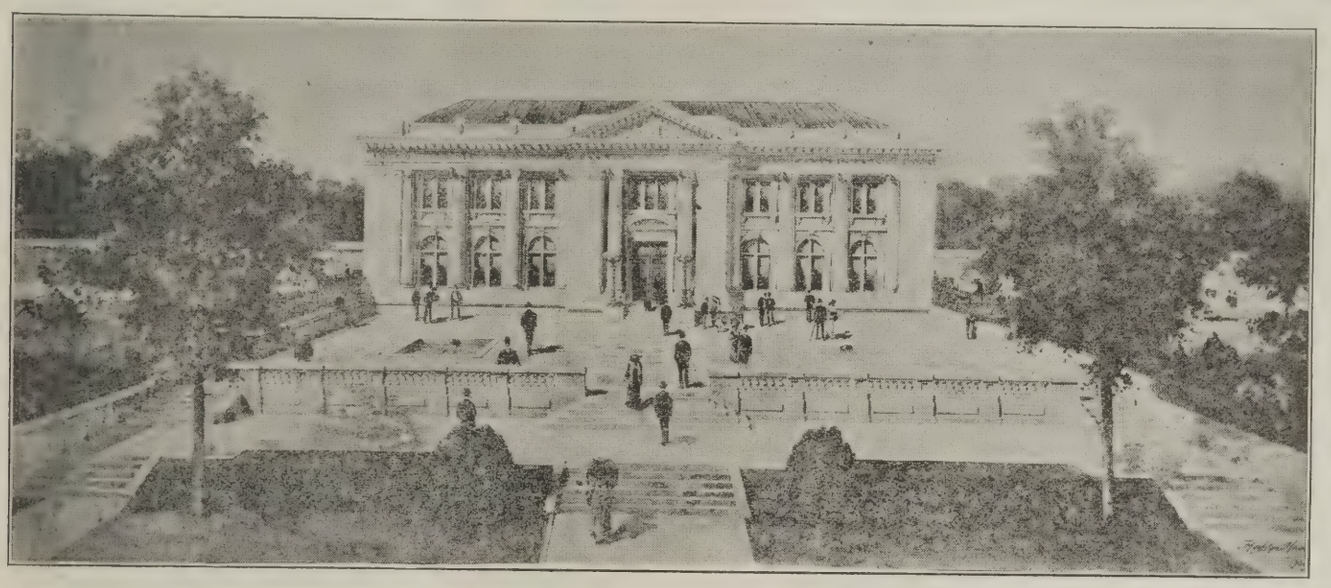
ARCHER M. HUNTINGTON'S PRINCELY GIFT.

The announcement that a museum is to be built for the Hispanic Society is the most important of the recent developments in metropolitan building. The society was organized last August by Archer M. Huntington, with Charles H. Tweed, Francis Lathrop, Isaac E. Gates, J. T. B. Hillhouse and M. L. Hillhouse as trustees. Its object is to collect and preserve books, original manuscripts, maps, coins and objects of art of ancient Spain, especially those connected with its relation to the discovery and early history of both North and South America. Mr. Huntington's own fine collection will be placed in the museum.

The building is to be erected in Audubon Park, on the north side of 155th st, 175 feet west of Broadway. It will be five stories in height, three being below ground, and with ground dimensions of 100x63.7. The estimated cost is $200,000.

The exterior, built of limestone, will be in the style of the Italian Renaissance at its best period, the Ionic order of architecture being used. The interior is to be distinctively Spanish, reproducing, if not the exact details of famous prototypes, at least their spirit and general effect. Charles P. Huntington, architect for the structure, will sail on Saturday for a seven-weeks' tour in Spain to study its architecture and obtain material for his designs.

The main floor of the building will contain a large reading-room, balconies and a decorative frieze in Moravian tile representing that portion of Spain's history relating to the Americas.



MAIN FLOOR AND GROUNDS.

There will be executive rooms on the front facing the garden. The main hall, which will be in marble, will be lighted by a glass dome. No wood will be used in building, the plans providing for an entirely fireproof structure. The terrace will be of brick and marble with a central motive in Moravian tile. In the large reading room there are to be three tablets representing different periods of the Spanish conquest.

For erecting the building the general contract has been issued to John Clark Udall, of 1 Union sq. The excavation has been dug and next Monday the work of laying pier-footings will begin. Samuel Parsons, landscape architect, of 1133 Broadway, will have charge of the terraces and gardens. F. B. Colton, who has been associated with Mr. Huntington in the preparation of the plans, will superintend the construction.

A beautiful institution, it is wholly the gift of Archer M. Huntington, Esq., to the society, the land, building and endowment representing about $1,000,000.

Expert Appraising.

JOHN R. FOLEY'S ADDRESS BEFORE THE Y. M. C. A. REAL ESTATE CLASS.

"Expert Testimony as to Valuation in Condemnation Proceedings," was the subject on which Mr. John R. Foley addressed the Real Estate Class of the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday night. Mr. Foley, with the use of a map prepared for the occasion, explained with much interest the full procedure of condemnation. He said in part:

"Expert testimony in condemnation proceedings that I will discuss to-night, or rather explain, is one that only a very small percentage of real estate men understand, and those who do and are retained for this class of work, find it very lucrative from an income standpoint, yet an arduous work, provided the appraiser is conscientious. And, let met tell you, unless you are conscientious in preparing your data, you are doing the greatest injustice to your employer and blasting your own reputation as well. The difference between an appraiser and an expert appraiser is that the former states what, in his opinion, the property is worth, and sends his bill along with the appraisement. Perhaps some poor broker has paid the fee himself, in the hope of getting a mortgage accepted on the property through the appraiser's figures. If the appraisement is too low, he sees a big commission fading away, and if he attempts to argue the question of values with the appraiser, he is politely but firmly told that the figures cannot be changed.

"Not so with the expert appraiser who has to give, not only the value, but explain before a commission of intelligent men under the cross examination of the assistant corporation counsel of the city of New York how he arrives at the value, and unless he has his case well prepared, and can meet the questions of the cross-examiner convincingly and intelligently, his testimony will be thrown out by the commissioners, and the owner of the property, which is being acquired by the city, will be at the mercy of the city expert, who, as a rule, takes advantage of a weak opponent, and bears the property down to the lowest possible figure."

Mr. Foley explained in full the method used by the city in condemning property, and continued:

"It is during the condemnation proceedings of a parcel of real estate that the expert appraiser has his inning. He is the all-important personage, and on him devolves the responsibility of his client receiving a reasonable compensation based on market value. I am now talking from the standpoint of the expert for the property owners, who, as a rule, is employed by his attorney before the proceedings begin. The city also engages its experts at this time, but they do not testify before the commissioners until the property owners' testimony is all in. You can readily see that the hard work falls on the property owners' expert, he having no previous testimony to be guided by, whereas the appraiser for the city has his opponents to guide him in the preparation of his case. As much care should be taken in preparing your testimony, as the lawyer takes in preparing his brief.

"The so-called expert who places too much confidence in himself and thinks it beneath his dignity to study the situation of the neighborhood in which the property to be condemned is located, is the man who will make himself ridiculous and whose testimony will be worthless from a qualification standpoint. I mean by this that before an expert is allowed to testify, he is examined by the corporation counsel as to his right to testify as an expert. He must show that he has sold property in the neighborhood, and must be able to describe in detail the improvements and class of property on every street and avenue within a radius of half a mile. He must have a record of every sale that has taken place in the neighborhood for a period of at least five years previous. He must carefully examine the property condemned, and if improved, give minute details of every portion of the construction; but, most important of all, he must study the conditions of surrounding improvements that will tend to add to the market value of the property of which he is testifying.

"I cannot lay too much stress on this point, for you can rest assured the city expert is on the lookout for conditions that would depreciate values, his object being to get the property as cheap as possible for the city. You can see by this that the expert who has his case intelligently prepared makes a better impression on the minds of the commissioners than one who does not know what he is talking about.

"As an example of this, I had an occasion recently to read the testimony of an expert in a certain proceeding. He was asked what class of improvement was on a certain avenue block between certain streets. His answer was "tenements," when, as a matter of fact, it was occupied by a brewery. The effect that this had on the commissioners' minds when the discrepancy was called to their attention by the city counsel, may well be imagined."

Mr. Foley then went on to explain just how an expert arrives at his figures in different classes of property. How the "Hofman Rule" was recognized by the courts as the means of reckoning the value of a certain part of a city lot that was to be acquired, and about riparian rights. Of the latter he said:

"Riparian rights embrace the right of access to the channel or navigable part of a river for navigation, fishing and such other uses as commonly belong to riparian ownership; the right to make a landing wharf or pier for personal use or that of the public, with the right of passage to and from the same with reasonable safety and convenience."

Next week's lecture, on Tuesday evening, will be delivered by Charles Griffith Moses, who will speak on the history of real estate on Washington Heights, from the boom of 1870 down to the present activity.

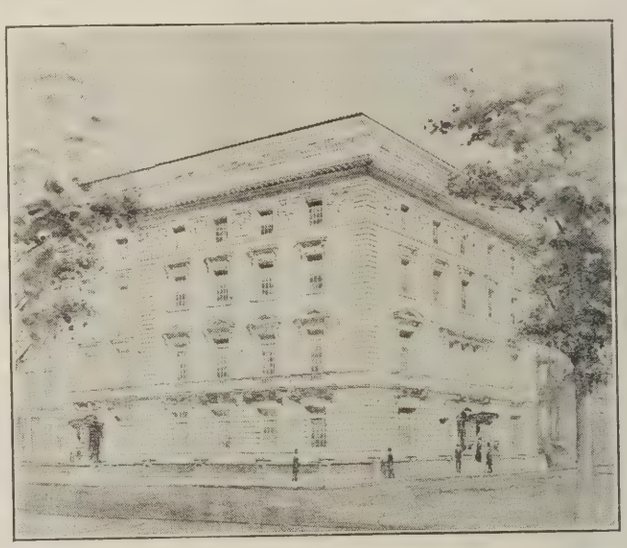
Difficulty of Locating Vacant Property in New Sections.

Rapid dealing in the Bronx and on Washington Heights is causing lax methods of investigating property, which may be repented at leisure. Owing to the great rush for lots in these sections, dealers and other prospective buyers generally start out to investigate, armed with a batch of a dozen or more diagrams of lots and little or no knowledge of the neighborhood. The streets in a majority of cases are not at all, or only partly made, and the absence of street signs and the doubt in the minds of the natives and others, who should be well acquainted with the names of the streets, make it extremely uncertain as to just where one is and hence this warning.

NOT A JOYOUS THING TO CONTEMPLATE.

Just suppose you were given, together with many others, a diagram of a plot of lots on a certain street, "Four Hundredth street," for example, and you went up there. Not seeing any signs, you inquired of an intelligent-looking native where Four Hundredth street was, and he told you you were on it. You looked 100 feet from the corner and you noted that the street was asphalted and that the lots were very cheap at the price—$4,000 each—and you had hastened back to your office and signed the contract and later took title.

Suppose a month hence you were informed by a prospective purchaser that your lots were on a street not yet cut through, with rock 40 feet above the grade, and possibly worth $200 apiece! Observe, that you have no redress. A seller is entitled to all he can get, and is not responsible for your mistakes. Moreover, the affair would be taken as a hugh joke by most people and you would receive no sympathy.



Regarding this matter, one real estate broker said this week: "It has been my privilege, and presumably that of others in the business, to hear many strenuous kicks about the difficulty of locating vacant property in the upper portions of Washington Heights and the Bronx. A visit to these sections in the mornings will bear out these complaints. Numbers of persons will be seen in the cars and on the streets, looking anxiously for lamp-posts, stopping strangers and showing plainly that they are uncertain of the locations, each one consulting diagram forms or other slips of paper.

"After several serious mistakes, quite accidental, however, it occurred to me that a person could readily be misled into taking a number of very serious falls by unscrupulous persons so inclined."

Mr. J. B. Haggin's New Residence.

A FIFTH AV PALACE DESIGNED BY ARCHITECTS COPELAND & DOLE.

James B. Haggin has finally decided to proceed with the erection of a marble residence on the northwest corner of Fifth av and 63d st, the old Progress Club site. His architects, Messrs. Copeland & Dole, of 51 Exchange pl, were again consulted by him last week and now state to the Record and Guide that their final plans and working drawings are complete. The plot measures 100x100 feet.

In May, 1903, plans were filed for two 5-sty and basement marble dwellings, one to measure 68x93.8, the other 32x100 feet. These were subsequently abandoned. The present design calls for a 6-sty marble structure in the style of the Italian Renaissance. Mr. Haggin bought the property in June, 1901, for $763,000 and, it is said, recently refused an offer which would have netted him a profit of $100,000.

"The property is not for sale; I have refused all offers," is all that Mr. Haggin will now say.

A. B. See Electric Elevator Co.'s New Shop.

On another page we show an illustration of the interior of the main erecting shop of the A. B. See Electric Elevator Company, at Pacific avenue, Jersey City. A faint conception of the magnitude of this factory can be had when the statement is made that the floor covers more than two and one-half acres, and alone cost thirty thousand dollars. The roof is of concrete and the offices are of steel and concrete, making the building practically fireproof. The skylights are of prism glass, so that the light is perfectly diffused throughout the entire factory. The plant is electrically operated throughout. Railroad tracks pass through the center of the works, so that materials can be loaded and unloaded from the cars by the overhead traveling crane.

Advice to Property Owners.

Lawson Purdy, secretary of the New York State Tax Reform Association, in a letter to the press, says that the equal assessment of real estate can only be accomplished by the co-operation of all persons interested, and in spite of the great improvement of recent years there is still great inequality. The charter amendment which provides for the separate statement of the value of land in assessments of real estate and for the publication of the assessment rolls has placed in the hands of every property owner, Mr. Purdy adds, the means of obtaining the information which will enable him to criticize the work of the deputy tax commissioners intelligently.

The Supervisor of The City Record has now on sale at his office, in the City Hall, borough of Manhattan, copies of the assessment roll for every section and ward of the city; each section, or ward, contains from 10,000 to 20,000 parcels of real estate, arranged by blocks and street numbers. Each section can be purchased for 25 cents and will be sent by mail for 35 cents. Mr. Purdy advises every owner to purchase at least those supplements of The City Record which contain the sections in which his property is situated or in which he resides.

The Highest Priced Apartment in New York.

The new Van Norden Trust Co. building, on the southeast corner of 5th av and 60th st, which is near completion from the plans of H. J. Hardenbergh, is considered an exceptionally handsome building. The bank floor is now occupied, and at least one of the apartment floors, the third, has been rented. Owing to the distinction which attaches to these apartments of being the highest-priced in New York, there was much interest in the announcement this week of the renting of the third floor to Edward C. Wallace, an iron merchant, at an annual rental of $15,000.

The 3-sty base of white marble, ornamented on the 5th av facade by large columns, is surmounted by stories faced with yellow Dutch bricks, the color scheme being very pretty. The rooms to be occupied by Mr. Wallace are exceptionally large and pleasant. The principal ones, six in number, are trimmed with mahogany, birch and white enamel on birch. The walls and ceilings are yet all white, the decorating to be as the tenant may elect. The rooms which are finished in white enamel are the two facing 5th av; the parlors have mahogany woodwork and the principal doors and the hall mantels are also of that wood. The main entrance hall on the ground floor is elegantly finished with Sienna marble and ornamental plastering in a cream tint.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

The week's budget of private sales for Manhattan and The Bronx consisted of two hundred and seventy-four transactions, one hundred and sixty-two of these are for Manhattan, and it can certainly be judged from them that the Manhattan market appears to be broadening. There were a number of sales in the borders of the business district, Frankfort, Fulton, Gold, South and Washington streets being represented. While there were only fifteen dwellings sold in Manhattan, several of them were of the more expensive kind. There were sixty-nine tenements sold. Of the sixty-five lot deals in Manhattan, representing two hundred and ninety-five lots, two hundred and fourteen were on Washington Heights. In The Bronx there were one hundred and twelve deals, eighty-eight of which were in vacant property representing four hundred and eighty lots, leaving only twenty-four transactions in improved property in this borough.

—Anybody having a thousand acres of good land, suitable as a site for the New York Training School for Boys, within fifty miles of New York, should communicate with State Comptroller Otto Kelsey at Albany. The commission desires to find a good, but not a high-priced site, a considerable part of which shall be good farming land. There must be a good water supply, suitable facilities for sewage disposal and convenience of access to the railroad, so that a switch can be constructed on the school lands. It is to be hoped that the commission will be able to find such a site in time to present its report to the incoming legislature.
